NOT GUILTY IS VERDICT

Trio of Lawrence Strike Leaders Acquitted of Murder Charge.

FRIENDS SHOWER THEM WITH KISSES

Salem, Mass, Nov. 26.—"Not guilty" is the verdict of the jury in the case of Joseph J. Ettor, Arturo Giovannitti and Joseph Caruso for the murder of Anna Lopizzo, who was killed in a Lawrence textile strike riot last winter.

When the three men had heard the words freeing them from the charge, they embraced and kissed each other in the prisoners' cage. Giovannitti then sprang to his feet.

"Gentlemen of the jury," he said, his face beaming with joy, "In the name of justice, truth and civilization, I thank you."

As he sat down the court interpreter, Afred Sacco, rose for Caruso and said:

"Mr. Caruso desires me to say that he wants to thank you all, and now that he is a free man he says that he was innocent of the crime."

Ettor, the leader of the strike at Lawrence and chief center of interest that has aroused world-wide attention, addressed the jury:

"May it please the court," he said, "I thank you not only for myself, but in the names of my companions. I also feel impelled to thank the court for the fair manner this trial has been conducted. The thanks we offer are not only ours, but thanks in the name of the working class."

Wearing Red Carnations.

The jury entered the court room at 8:20 o'clock. Immediately thereafter the prisoners, each wearing a red carnation, were brought to the cage in the center of the room. All were smiling. Judge Quinn ascended the bench at 8:24 and asked if the jury had agreed upon a verdict.

"We have," said the foreman, as he handed it to the court bailiff.

"Joseph Caruso, stand up," commanded Clerk George.

As Caruso obeyed, the clerk called: "Caruso, face the jury; jurymen, look at the prisoner. Gentlemen of the jury, is Joseph Caruso guilty or not guilty?"

"Not guilty," was the unanimous reply.

Ettor and Giovannitti were likewise commanded to rise and again the jurors chorused a verdict of "not guilty" for each defendant. The jury, which for more than six weeks had listened to the evidence in this notable trial, was then excused from further service with the thanks of the court. The jurors hastened from the building and were cheered by the crowds of mill workers in the streets.

Men Kiss Freed Man.

When the jurors had left, the court announced to Caruso that there was another indictment against him charging him with assault with a deadly weapon

PASS SENTENCE ON FOUR GUNMEN

FACE DOOM STOLIDLY

New York, Nov. 26.—"Gyp the Blood," "Whitey" Lewis, "Lefty Louie" and "Dago" Frank, the gunmen convicted of the murder of Herman Rosenthal, were sentenced by Justice Goff today to die in the electric chair at Sing Sing during the week of Jan. 6.

Each of the prisoners was sentenced separately and in each case Charles G. F. Wahle, their counsel, moved that the verdict be set aside and the judgment be arrested. Each motion Justice Goff successively denied. One of the grounds for Mr. Wahle's motion was that the verdict was the result of "passion, prejudice and other influences."

None of the condemned men gave any visible sign of his feelings. All looked stolidly ahead and each shook the hand of Mr. Wahle as he was led away. Accompanied by Sheriff Harburger and twelve deputies the four were forced through a big, silent crowd outside the criminal courts building, thrust into the prison van and taken to the Grand Central station to take a train for Sing Sing where, with Charles Becker, former police lieutenant, and condemned as instigator of the crime, they will await execution.

IT FIXES PRICE ON BINDER TWINE

Decided by Harvester Concern Each Year, Says Witness.

IN MARCH OR APRIL

Chicago, Nov. 26.—J. C. Grondyke, although declared to be a witness in sympathy with the International Harvester company, today before Special Examiner Robert S. Taylor testified that the international concern each year since its formation has fixed the price on binder twine.

Edwin P. Grosvenor, special assistant to Attorney General Wickersham, drew from the witness the admission that Grondyke was under contract to supply the International company with binder twine. Then the government prosecutor went into the matter of price fixing.

"Prior to the formation of the International Harvester company in 1902," asked Attorney Grosvenor, "were the prices on binder twine fixed?"

"There was no fixing of prices then," replied Grondyke. "Sales were based on the cost of raw materials."

"When was this method changed?"

"In 1902 and 1903."

"When does the International company fix the price on binder twine?"

"Usually in March or April. In case we make a sale before that time we guarantee the price to our customer and leave the price blank to be filled in later."

BAPTISTS HUSK CORN.

Pastor and His Flock in Stunt to Lift Church Debt.

Carmi, Ill., Nov. 26.—Led by Rev. E. N. Ryan, pastor, thirty women members of the Missionary Baptist church of this city went six miles in automobiles to a cornfield on Wm. F. Hubble's farm and husked thirty-three bushels of corn in half an hour. The corn was hauled to this city and sold to a local dealer, who paid $1 for each bushel. The money will be used to lift a church indebtedness.

GIBSON JURY IS UNABLE TO AGREE

Panel is Discharged After Seventeen Hours of Deliberation.

A HEATED WRANGLE

Goshen, N. Y., Nov. 26.—After deliberating for more than fourteen hours the jury in the case of Burton W. Gibson, charged with the murder of his client, Mrs. Rosa Menschik Szabo, reported to Justice Tompkins shortly after 11 o'clock this morning that they could not agree on a verdict. They were accordingly discharged.

After being out six hours the jurors filed into the court room and told Justice Tompkins that they could not agree. "You will retire, gentlemen," directed the court in reply, "and make another attempt to find a verdict."

Gibson slouched down in his seat when Foreman Hicks announced a disagreement. Mrs. Gibson buried her face in her hands and wept. During their stay in the court room one juror wanted to know if they had to find that Mrs. Szabo was strangled to death in order to return a verdict of conviction. He was told yes. Another wanted the Szabo will. It was given him. A third wanted the letters the alleged victim had sent to her home in Austria and these, too, went back into the little room behind the locked and bolted doors.

Mr. Elder, Gibson's lawyer, was granted permission to make a motion.

"I request the court to charge the jury," he said, "that they must find, from all the evidence beyond a reasonable doubt, that this defendant strangled Mrs. Szabo to death before they can convict him of any crime."

"I have already so charged the jury," Justice Tompkins said.

Gibson returned to his cell and Mrs. Gibson left the court room. As the night waned the debate in the jury room became more heated. Angry words floated out into the corridor. One was overheard to declare that he would hold out for an acquittal indefinitely. Others were equally insistent for a verdict of guilty.

PROGRESS IS SEALED BOOK

No Hint of Results from Factions Negotiating for Armistice.

TURKISH BASIS FOR AGREEMENT

No Change in General Tension Which is Holding All Europe.

London, Nov. 26.—No change for the worse in the international political situation brought about by the war in the Balkans is visible today except insofar as the continued tension decreases the ability of diplomacy to resist a rupture.

Great Britain, France and Germany all are giving counsels of moderation both at Vienna and St. Petersburg. There also is reason to believe that Great Britain has given Servia as well as Russia and France to understand that she has no interest in Servia's demand for a port in Adriatic sea. She also has told them she has no intention of supporting Servia's claim by force of arms nor of aiding any other power to do so.

The fact that the Austro-Hungarian consul at Prizend has arrived at Uskup, thus disposing of the reports of his murder ought to be helpful in the opinion of diplomats, in bringing about a general improvement of the situation.

The progress of the negotiations between the delegates of Turkey and of the Balkan allies at Tchatalja is still a sealed book. In diplomatic circles in London it is stated that Turkey has presented the following as an acceptable basis for an agreement:

First—No war indemnity.

Second—The retention by Turkey of the territory bounded by the Martza river, the fortress of Adrianople to be included.

Third—The maintenance of the sovereignty of the sultan of Turkey in Albania.

FOGEL QUITS AT LEAGUE SESSION

Hands in Resignation as President of the Philadelphia Club.

PITCHER MAY BUY IT

New York, Nov. 26.—Horace Fogel, president of the Philadelphia National league baseball club, tendered his resignation to the National league magnates in session here this afternoon. He took this action suddenly and without explanation before the assembled magnates had time to consider the charges against him of having made statements reflecting on the integrity of National league umpires.

It was also announced that Alfred B. Wiler, of Philadelphia, had been elected president of the Philadelphia club at a meeting held on Nov. 22. Mr. Wiler will represent the club at the session today. Mr. Wiler is a lawyer and a stockholder in the Philadelphia club.

Notwithstanding Fogel's resignation it is understood that the investigation into the charges against him will go on and will be cleared up. Baseball magnates heard this afternoon that Christy Mathewson, the star pitcher of the New York Giants, had obtained sufficient financial backing to purchase the Philadelphia club. Fogel denied that he knows Forman.

The meeting was called to order shortly after 2 o'clock. Messrs. Fleischman, of Cincinnati; Jones, of St. Louis, and Ebbetts, of Brooklyn, were appointed a committee to draw up suitable resolutions on the death of Mr. Brush. Adjournment was then taken for an hour.

FORMAN FIRES BOMB.

Says Murphy Inspired the Charges Against Umpires.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—Under the caption, "The Story of the Story Fogel Wrote," W. S. Forman, sporting editor of the Chicago Evening Post, in a signed statement today, charges Charles W. Murphy, president of the Chicago National League club, with being the instigator of the "story," which resulted in charges preferred against Fogel.

Mr. Forman is in New York prepared to testify before the league meeting. The "Fogel story," attacking President Lynch and his umpire system recently appeared in the Post. Regarding it Mr. Morman says:

"Charles W. Murphy authorized me to tell Fogel that Murphy had suggested writing the story. On this representation Fogel wrote it and signed it. He sent it to Murphy, who read it before I ever saw it. It came to me from Murphy's office, and if Murphy had not approved that story it never would have been published. The man who is morally responsible for that article and the charges it contained is Murphy himself, and I have Fogel's own word for it that he wrote it simply 'to help Murphy fight his battles' in the national league."

PLEADS UNWRITTEN LAW.

Chicago Man Says He Saw Wife Embracing Another on Sofa.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—Isaac Etnyer, on trial before Judge Windes for murdering his wife, Mrs. Iona Etnyer, in their home in Washington boulevard, today pleaded the unwritten law in his defense. He declared that his wife had responded to the wooing of Rayford E. Barlow, a corporal in a regiment stationed at Fort Sheridan. "I saw Barlow and my wife sitting on the sofa embracing each other when I looked through the window," said Etnyer. "Something seemed to snap in my brain. I lost my reason, ran into the house, got a revolver and fired."

A bullet struck Mrs. Etnyer in the abdomen, causing her death. Barlow was wounded in the shoulder.

Corporal Barlow denied the accusation and said he visited the Etnyer home to meet his fiancee, Miss Elsie Bonin, of Elgin, Ill.

STILL DELVE IN RUINS FOR DEAD

Fatalities in Waukegan Explosion Fewer Than at First Feared.

ESCAPE BY MIRACLE

Waukeegan, Ill., Nov. 26.—The number of dead, injured and missing as a result of the explosion in the plant of the Corn Products Refining company here yesterday was found to be smaller than at first believed.

Early today eight persons are known to be dead; four are missing and there are twenty-four injured in a hospital, nearly all of whom are in a precarious condition. Only one of the dead remains unidentified.

The fact that all of the persons in or directly outside of the building at the time the explosion occurred were not killed made the blast appear freakish. The heap of debris, twisted iron and shattered wooden beams was proof that those who were not instantly killed had escaped as if by a miracle.

Firemen and police are still working in the ruins in search of more bodies.

WOMEN COMMEND PRESIDENT TAFT

THE CONVENTION ENDS

Philadelphia, Nov. 26.—The National American Woman's Suffrage association near the close of the morning session today adopted resolutions commending President Taft for appointing a woman as head of the national children's bureau, went on record as favoring arbitration among the nations to prevent wars and declared against traffic in women.

The convention adjourned sine die early this afternoon. The next place of meeting will be selected by the executive board which meets tomorrow. All unfinished business was referred to the board for disposal.

Contrary to expectation the business of the association was not all disposed of yesterday and it became necessary to extend the convention over another day. At the same time it was decided to hold another mass meeting in Independence Square, where two largely attended open air rallies have already been held.

Included in the matters on which action was to be taken today was the final disposition of several constitutional amendments which had been ordered laid over at previous sessions and the submission of reports by various committees and auxiliary presidents which were crowded out of their schedule.

It was announced by the auditors today that since the convention began nearly $10,000 in cash and pledges have been received to carry on the work of the association.

BOGUS COLLECTOR WORKING AGAIN

Obtains $1 from Mrs. Krider and Fails to Return.

The same bogus collector who was in the west end of the city yesterday representing himself as an employe of the Fort Wayne Sentinel, is still at work and seems able to evade the police. He was heard from in various parts of the city this morning, and at Mrs. Charles Krider's home, 216 Wallace street, he secured a dollar.

He said he would deliver a set of dishes with a subscription to the Journal-Gazette, and took the dollar to get change. An hour later the police were notified. The fellow is an imposter and is not authorized to collect for any Fort Wayne newspaper.

BOARD IS OUT WITH A DENIAL

Inmates of Orphans' Home at Marion Have Not Been Abused.

JUSTIFIES ACTS OF MISS FLEMING

Girl for Whom Billy Rugh Died Quit Hospital—Indiana News.

Marion, Ind., Nov. 26.—The executive board of the Grant County Orphans' Home association, in a report made public today, denies charges made recently by the Grant county board of children's guardians and the Grant county board of charities and corrections, that children of the Grant county orphans' home have been punished in an unreasonable manner.

Miss Fleming, the matron of the orphanage, is held as competent and uniformly kind to the wards, but on account of recent publicity, the executive board states Miss Fleming's resignation, which has been in the hands of the association for some time, will be accepted. During the time Miss Fleming has been matron of the Grant county orphans' home, with from 65 to 75 wards, only 18 cases of corporal punishment administered to children have been reported. The board finds the punishment was deserved and was not unduly or unreasonably severe."

ETHEL SMITH RETURNS HOME.

Gary Girl, for Whom Billy Rugh Died, Improves Rapidly.

Gary, Ind., Nov. 26.—Ethel Smith, for whom the life of Billy Rugh, Gary's heroic newsboy, was sacrificed that she might recover from burns suffered in a motorcycle accident, left the hospital today and returned to her home. Her life was despaired of until crippled Billy Rugh offered to go on the operating table and furnish the live tissue necessary to save her. The skin grafting restored the girl to health, but Rugh died from pneumonia, the result of the amputation of his crippled leg. "I wish Billy could have lived," said Miss Smith as she left the hospital.

EX-SHERIFFS AT DINNER.

Ten Former Grant County Officials Feasted by Incumbent.

Marion, Ind., Nov. 26.—Sheriff Tony George today gave a dinner for the ten former sheriffs in Grant county, and the sheriff-elect, Y. F. White. The guests were John F. Jones, Asbury E. Evestone, Orange R. Holman, Wm. G. Wilson, Alfred McFeely, John Sanders, John T. Williams, C. C. Bradford, Clark Mills, J. B. McGuffin and Mr. White. McGuffin and White are democrats.

Hamilton, Bermuda, Nov. 26.—The health of President-elect Wilson shows an improvement today, but he has decided to remain at home all day so as completely to recover from the attack of indigestion, which affected him yesterday.

Thanksgiving day will find Mr. Wilson and his family deprived of a turkey, as there is none available in the island.

HIS WIFE A CIGARETTE FIEND; WANTS DIVORCE.

Logansport, Ind., Nov. 26.—Charging that his wife is an inveterate cigarette smoker, Sherman Tippett, a farmer north of Logansport, has filed suit for divorce in the Cass circuit court against Lottie Tippett. Tippett says his wife smokes more than a package of cigarettes in a day, and that often she wakes and takes a whiff or two in the night before falling back to sleep. He also says his wife has disappeared.

REPUBLICANS DID NOT GIVE DEMOCRATS CASH.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 26.—"Rep. state committee—$157." This item, listed among the receipts of the democratic state committee, caused considerable speculation as to the meaning and a scandal threatened in state politics. The mystery was cleared today when it was explained at headquarters that "rep" really stood for republican, but it was added that the amount received was a debt and not a contribution, as it appeared.

Last spring, it was explained, the democrats were put to a heavy expense in decorating Tomlinson hall for the state convention. The republicans were to follow with their state convention in a few days. The leaders of the two parties decided to go "halves" on the cost and the democrats say the $157 listed among the receipts is the republicans' share of the expense.

Not a Vegetarian Furnace

IT ISN'T very often that the writer of these little tales of every-day life neglects to tell the name of the hero of the daily narrative, or to tell where the thing happened. But, for good reasons, today's little story must be robbed of these details. One reason for omitting the name of the hero is the fact that the coal man who told the story wouldn't reveal the name. Another reason for omitting it is that we wouldn't have printed it if he had. So here goes:

He came home one night very, very "tired." It was quite late. Everybody else was sound asleep. He couldn't think very clearly, except to remember that one of the routine duties of the night was to fix the furnace so it would continue to send up a limited supply of heat throughout the sleeping hours. So he made his way somewhat uncertainly to the basement, shook down the ashes, put in two shovelfuls from the near-by bin, adjusted the dampers and crawled upstairs again and was soon asleep in his comfortable bed.

When he woke up in the morning he found the room uncomfortably cold. As soon as he could get downstairs he remarked to the hired girl that the rooms were uncomfortably chilly.

"Yes, sir," said she. "I went down to see about the furnace, and the fire is out."

"Out!"

"Out!"

"Yes, sir; somebody got into the wrong bin last night and filled the furnace with potatoes."

CLUB MEMBERS TO TRY NEW SYSTEM

Lecture at Commercial Club by Clarence G. Hoag

ON THE NEW BALLOT

Considerable interest is expressed over the meeting to be held this evening at the Commercial club, when an address will be delivered by Hon. Clarence Gilbert Hoag, secretary-treasurer of the American Proportional Representation league. The meeting begins at 8 o'clock and a large attendance is anticipated by President Theodore F. Thieme.

The organization represented by Mr. Hoag is attempting to secure an effective ballot. Its work is nation wide, and its system is now being discussed by the principal cities of the United States. Mr. Hoag will conduct a sample election this evening, among those present, for the purpose of demonstrating how the system of proportional voting works out.

The new system has been adopted by some of the countries of Northern Europe, and has been in effect for some time in many places, including Johannasburg, South Africa, where it has been found to be a distinct improvement over the old system of balloting.

DUTY OF POLICE HOGAN'S ANSWER

They Are Expected to See That Obstructions Are Removed.

NOTES OF CITY HALL

That it is the duty of the police department to keep the streets free from obstructions is the answer of City Attorney H. G. Hogan to an inquiry on the subject filed at the last meeting of the city council by Member Wagner and the reply will be delivered tonight.

Just what Mr. Wagner had up his sleeve when he made the inquiry was not divulged, but the answer will probably be followed by a resolution on the subject which will demand that the policemen see that all street signs that have not already been removed be taken away. There are a few left in the face of orders issued some time ago to clean up Calhoun street.

Other streets on which ornamental lights have been installed may also be included in the new request. If members of the council have anything new to spring at the meeting tonight they are keeping it under cover.

Clerk Jeffries has nothing but the ordinances increasing the pay of the chief and assistant chief of the fire department and providing for the appointment of six additional men and the law giving to the members of the police force the increase in pay agreed upon several weeks ago.

Councilman Paul P. Kinder says that he will not have his resignation ready and it is likely that he will hold on until after the first of the year, as he is not ready yet to move to his new home on West Washington boulevard.

There will probably be an ordinance introduced modifying the sign eradicator permitting signs already up to stand until they become dangerous. This was practically agreed upon at a meeting of the special committee and the merchants.

Notes of the City Hall.

Copies of specifications for the collection of garbage were made today in the office of the board of public works and will be delivered to contractors who want to submit bids at the letting on December 3. They provide for two more wagons and the board of works has an appropriation of $20,556 to pay for the work. This is an increase over last year and is given with a view of obtaining better service.

City Attorney Hogan says it will be a very difficult matter to get any other company to assume the risk under the bonds supplied by the Metropolitan Paving company with the United Surety company as guarantors. The Metropolitan company has dissolved and Mr. Hogan is making some inquiry. Columbia avenue, Sixth, Brackenridge and Suttenfield streets are involved.

WILL REVIVE OLD SCANDAL.

Shackleton Case Will Bring Out Story of Dublin Jewel Theft.

London, Nov. 26.—The trial of Frank Shackleton, who has recently lived in New York, and who was arrested in Portuguese East Africa, on a charge of defrauding Lord Roland Sutherland Gower of the greater portion of his fortune, is expected to be the most sensational of the year and possibly of many years. The prosecution intends to revive the smoldering scandal of the Dublin crown jewels and will make some remarkable allegations regarding Shackleton's share in that mysterious robbery. Shackleton, who is the very antithesis of his brother, Sir Ernest Shackleton, the explorer, was Dublin herald and Sir Arthur Vicars was Ulster king-at-arms at the time of the theft of the jewels. Both were compelled to resign their positions, and great sympathy was felt for Sir Arthur. Although it is an open secret in Dublin that Shackleton could have saved Sir Arthur from disgrace by giving certain information, he did not raise a finger to help him. Nothing was every definitely proved against Shackleton respecting the theft, but the prosecution has something very startling on this point to disclose.

ASKS RETURN OF A CEMETERY LOT

Action in Superior Court to Recover Lindenwood Property.

GRANTOR WAS INSANE

A rather peculiar action was on trial in the superior court today in which Catherine Rarick is endeavoring to recover the title to a lot in Lindenwood cemetery deeded by Dr. George W. Bowen, her father, to Thetus Blystone.

The lot is valued at about $700 and it is charged that for three years before his death, which included the date of the deed, Dr. Bowen's actions were peculiar and that he was not mentally capable of making a legal transfer.

The transfer was made in July, 1910, and the case has been on the docket since that time while an effort was being made to bring about a transfer without the cost of a trial.

M'MANIGAL UNDER SEARCHING FIRE

Seeking to Show Confessed Dynamiters Are Alone Responsible.

WHO GAVE ORDERS

Indianapolis, Nov. 26.—Adhering to its argument that the dynamiters who already have confessed alone were responsible for explosions, the defense at the "dynamite conspiracy" trial today continued its cross-examination of Ortie E. McManigal.

Senator John W. Kern, chief counsel for the forty-five defendants, plied McManigal with questions intended to sho wthat the dynamiter kept as secluded as possible while on his trips of destruction.

"When I went to Boston to see Michael J. Young, the Iron Workers' business agent, about blowing up the tower on the municipal buildings at Springfield, Mass., in April, 1911, Young called me down," said McManigal. "He said he had told J. J. McNamara I was not to sto pat Boston as Young didn't want to be seen with me."

"Didn't McNamara tell you always to see as few people as possible and didn't you receive your instructions from McNamara alone?" asked Senator Kern.

"From McNamara and Herbert S. Hockin. Once when Hockin instructed me I told him if I was caught we all would be caught."

"But you never got any instructions about jobs to be blown up from any one except McNamara?"

"I said McNamara and Hockin. Young in Boston talked to me about doing work for the local union, but I told him I worked only for the international."

Olaf A. Tveitmoe, of San Francisco, a defendant who had been sitting at counsel table since the tiral began, was ordered by Judge Anderson to sit among the other defendants.

"I notice there is a perpetual smile on the face of the defendant Tveitmoe while the witness is being examined," said Judge Anderson. "I will not permit any demonstration either by smiling or otherwise."

Before two explosions on a viaduct at Springfield, Ill., on March 8, 1911, when $45,000 damage was done, Patrick F. Murphy testified, he was visited by Fred S. Spears, a union official, and told by Spears if the job was not unionized it would be "put on the bum." When the defense objected District Attorney Miller said: "It has been shown that Spears, though not indicted, has been shown to be a co-conspirator and ought to have been indicted." The court overruled the objection and the witness said he understood Spears threatened the use of dynamite.

Mr. Miller said J. B. McNamara actually blew up the job.

MENTHO-LAXENE HAS NO EQUAL

As a Cold, Cough and Catarrh Remedy—Made at Home Easily, Quickly—A Full Pint, That Lasts Through the Season.

Cheaper Than Ready-Made Medicine—Purer and Guaranteed More Effective Than Anything Ever Heard Of—Try It.

People who've "barrels of money" probably won't appreciate this advice.

This is for the reader who knows the value of every five-cent piece, and usually it saves from 40 to 100 five-cent pieces for those who are informed. Buying medicine in dribs costs more than making a big supply yourself. Buying ordinary patent medicines means that you pay too much for syrups, corks, bottles, labels, cartons, etc. For instance, if you buy a 25-cent bottle of cough medicine, it contains about two ounces, four-fifths of which is syrup—and for 25 cents you can make one-half gallon of syrup.

By making Mentho-Laxene medicine at home you save lots of money on syrup alone, and besides you know it's pure and quickly effective. Let us prove then that the best and cheapest way to cure coughs, colds, catarrh, and to prevent pneumonia, diphtheria, la grippe, is to make this fine big supply of medicine by mixing one-half pint of boiling water with a pint of granulated sugar. Then, buy the pure concentrated essence Mentho-Laxene (a 2½ oz. bottle) empty it into a pint bottle or jar and fill it up with the syrup. Directions with each bottle tells how to make and take, while the manufacturers guarantee to refund money to any dissatisfied purchaser. You run no risk and will have on hand a medicine which has never been equalled for colds, coughs, bronchitis, catarrh, hoarseness, etc. Its tonic laxative action puts the entire system on a healthy basis and chronic disease and consumption are avoided. The above product is manufactured by The Blackburn Products Co., Dayton, Ohio. This applie sto Mentha-Laxene.

WINNING CAMPAIGN MADE BY A WOMAN

Mrs. Wesner, Formerly of South Whitley, Elected to County Office in Colorado.

South Whitley, Ind., Nov. 26.—Mrs. Richard Wesener, of Sterling, Col., a former resident of South Whitley, at the recent election held in her home county was elected to the office of clerk and recorder of Logan county, Colorado, and will enter upon her official duties on the first of January next. This information Mrs. Wesner writes in a letter just received.

Mrs. Wesner says, in the letter, that she was the only republican elected on the ticket and that she had a majority of 400 in the county while all of the remainder of the ticket was defeated by majorities ranging from 100 to 600. She says that during this campaign she drove over 600 miles and made speeches in every precinct in Logan county and she attributes her success to the fact that she became acquainted with the people and got in close touch with them.

Mrs. Wesner will be well remembered by the people of Whitley county, her husband having formerly been engaged in the jewelry business at South Whitley, where they resided for eight years. However, ten years ago they were forced to sell out their business owing to the illness of Mr. Wesner and they then moved to Sterling, Colorado, where her husband died four years ago.

Shortly after the death of her husband, Mrs. Wesner accepted the deputyship of the auditor's office of Logan county in which capacity she served in a most efficient manner and when woman's suffrage won in that state she was nominated for the above named office and her past work was of such an ideal nature that democrats as well as republicans voted for her.

HIGHEST POINT FOR YEARS.

Indiana Oil Reaches $1.08 and May Go Higher.

Hartford City, Ind., Nov. 26.—Indiana oil reached its highest price in several years Monday when the third two-cent advance within the month was announced from the offices of the Ohio Oil company at Montpelier. The quotations now are: Indiana, $1.08; South Lima, $1.08, and North Lima, $1.13.

A shortage of production is said to be responsible for the increase. Monday's advance was the second within the past ten days, and it is not believed the top price has yet been reached.

STOMACH MISERY JUST VANISHES

Time It! No Indigestion, Gas or Sourness Five Minutes After Taking "Pape's Diapepsin."

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache—this is indigestion.

A full case of Pape's Diapepsin costs only fifty cents and will thoroughly cure your out-of-order stomach, and leave sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases, then you will understand why dyspeptic trouble of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. Diapepsin is harmless and tastes like candy, though each dose contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many Diapepsin cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you every try a little for indigestion or gastritis or any other stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and forever rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion.—Adv.

The Real Paramount Issue.

The settlement of the wage controversy involving fifty-two railroads east of Chicago and some 30,000 locomotive engineers in their employ, by the finding of the board of arbitration which has just been handed down, will be occasion for general satisfaction, and it is valuable not alone in adjusting immediate differences but in adding to the precedent for the settlement of future disagreements by peaceful measures and without a resort to strike.

Naturally, the result was a compromise. The engineers did not get all they had hoped for nor all that they believed themselves entitled to, but they secured an advance. Perhaps the railroad chiefs, also, were in a measure disappointed that any sort of concessions were granted in the light of the rather forceful array of facts illuminative of operating conditions they were able to put forth as an argument against a wage advance. However, there will be little disposition to quibble on the part of either side of the controversy. Each had agreed in advance to accept the result, and neither are the sort of men who go back on their word, once again.

The striking and really significant phase of the finding, however, is the well-defined recognition of the rights of the general public in a situation with such widespread ramifications. It was admitted that the immediate parties to the controversy were deeply interested in the outcome, bu it was declared that the interest of the general public so far transcended that of either the railroads or the engineers that it amounts to the paramount issue in the case. Too often in labor disputes this is a feature that is entirely lost sight of. In emphasizing the view that in matters involving so closely the general public welfare as do the railroads, there must be some established rule of adjusting differences other than by a strike, the board of arbitration in this case has performed a distinct public service. In any matter involving transportation, the public is the real paramount issue.

Those ingenious light-fingered gentlemen who, posing as deputy sheriffs, carried away and robbed all the slot machines in the town of Schneider, Ind., the other evening, are believed to be the only ones save the proprietors, who ever got anything substantial out of the slot machine.

Among other things for which Fort Wayne ought to be thankful next Thursday is the fact that it will shortly have an opportunity to do a bit of real good by patronizing the benefit entertainments which the printers are preparing to give to assist the public playgrounds movement.

Mr. Carnegie might have made more of a hit with his proposition to pension ex-presidents if he had made it broad enough to include the ex-presidential candidates as well.

SELF-GOVERNMENT.

(Indianapolis News.)

Amid the loose thinking, and the even looser talk of the day, many people have lost all idea of what self-government means. It is in the minds of not a few men confused with self-administration. Because the people do not enact or enforce the laws it is assumed that they do not govern. And those who insist that the people should, as they say, "govern," hold that they can not do this unless they both pass the laws and execute them. Those who are familiar with the writings of Thomas Jefferson know that he had no such theory of government. Indeed, he almost went so far as to say that if this was what was meant by government, the people were not fit to rule.

But such a system would be bad, even if the people were eminently fit to rule. The affairs of a great nation can not be administered along any such line. People have no time to devote to the details of government. Nor is it necessary that they should do this in order to be self-governing. All that is required is that they be represented. Men are sent to congress and the state legislatures to act for them, and president, governors and mayors are elected to serve them. It is through these agents that the people govern—through them that they must govern. Throughout, our government is one of delegated powers. And it has worked well. Of course, we lose soemthing in efficiency, but that is one of the penalties that we pay for freedom. Popular government can never be as efficient as one that is highly centralized. Our people would never submit to the drill and discipline to which the Germans are subjected—a fact that might as well be kept in mind by those to whom the German model appeals so strongly. The type is admirable in many ways, but it is wholly out of harmony with our national ideals, with the spirit of our institutions. If we are to have a greater degree of self-government it must come, not through changes in our constitutions, but through a greater interest on the part of the people in public affairs, and a greater care in the selection of public servants.

THE PRESS DISCUSSES RAILROAD ACCIDENTS.

"Public Is Educated."

Brooklyn Eagle: "The public is educated to like high speed, and no voice is raised in protest until a flier jumps the track and a score are killed or injured."

"Claims of Injured Passengers."

Providence Journal: "When the claims of the injured passengers are settled it probably will be found that there is no economy in using ties too rotten to hold spikes."

"Dreadful Slapghter"

Baltimore Sun: "If, in order to prevent this really dreadful slaughter, it is necessary for the railroads to use lighter cars and engines or to slow down the speed, then that must be done."

"For Purposes of Competition."

Washington Star: "Most of the train speeding is done for purposes of competition and advertising and the people will ride on these trains if they can afford the price."

"Speed Mania."

Detroit Free Press: "The development of the speed mania has been going on for many years, and has probably had as much to do with the growth of modern luxurious travel as any other one factor."

"At Neglected Points."

Boston Transcript: "A chain is no stronger than its weakest link and a roadbed may be strong throughout most of its length, yet have its places of peril at neglected points."

"Schedules Before Safety."

Pittsburg Dispatch: "Accidents will continue to happen as long as schedules are placed before safety."

"Commissioner of Safety."

St. Louis Republic: "The Santa Fe Railroad company has created a new office and named an incumbent who will be known as the commissioner of safety. It will be his duty to study accidents and make suggestions for preventing them."

NEW PROFESSIONAL RISK?

(Pittsburg Dispatch.)

The medical profession will await with interest the outcome of that litigation begun at Spokane in which a man has brough suit against his physician on extraordinary grounds. Humorists have joked about doctors burying their mistakes underground and their consequent immunity from exposure, but in this case the "mistake" persisted in living. He claims that after the doctor had told him he had cancer of the stomach, and believing recovery was impossible, he had sold his business at a sacrifice and settled down to wait for death, he failed to die. Other consultation disclosed that he was perfectly well, and he now seeks the sum stated for time and money lost through confidence in the physician's verdict.

Prospective patients will unite in hoping the court decides against him. Otherwise consider the dire possibility, if a man is told he has fallen a victim to an incurable ailment, of the medico having to decide between letting him disprove his diagnosis and collect heavy damages or making good on the prediction. Of course, a medical blunder of that sort is not to be condoned, but it is much pleasanter than the other kind of mistake that is buried. If a precedent is established tending to deter physicians from telling their patients or their friends what they believe to be the whole truth, on the rare chance that it might be a happy error of judgment, it would be unfortunate. There are times when it is necessary to know.

JEOPARDIZING THE PRESIDENCY.

(New York World.)

In California only by order of the courts has it been found possible to compel the board of supervisors of Los Angeles county to make an accurate canvass of the votes in the presidential election. In their rough-and-ready way they had accepted the returns as certified by precinct officers and refused to count the ballots. So close is the vote of the two leading candidates that a slight change in the figures one way or the other would determine the electoral vote of the state.

So far as regards the general result this year, it does not matter whether Wilson or Roosevelt, or Taft or Debs carried California. But the election of a president might easily depend on the vote of California or any other state. The presidency of the United States was actually decided in 1877 by one electoral vote. The failure of a canvassing board in one county of one state to make a complete and accurate return might act as a fraud upon the entire nation.

The separate states make their own election laws and are responsible for their observance. The California case should serve as a warning, no less emphatic because it is unusual.

TASTE, SMELL AND HEARING RESTORED

A Simple, Harmless Remedy Quickly Relieves Catarrhal Deafness.

The thousands who suffer the miseries of colds and catarrh and claim they have never found a cure can get instant relief by simply anointing the nostrils with Ely's Cream Balm.

Unlike internal medicines which upset the stomach, or strong snuffs which only aggravate the trouble, this cleansing, healing, antiseptic Balm instantly reaches the seat of the trouble, stops the nasty discharge, clears the nose, head and throat, and brings back the sense of taste, smell and improves the hearing. More than this, it strenghens the weakened and diseased tissues, thus protecting you against a return of the trouble. This remedy will cure a cold in a day, and prevent its becoming chronic or resulting in catarrh.

Nasal catarrh is an inflammation of the membrane lining the air passages, and cannot be reached by mixtures taken into the stomach, nor can it be cured by snuffs and powders which only cause additional irritation. Don't waste time on them. Get a 50 cent bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist, and after using it for a day you will wish you had tried it sooner.

Mothers should give the children Ely's Cream Balm for colds and croup. It is perfectly harmless, and pleasant to take.

Winter Aids to Beauty

(By Mme. D'Mille)

"If the eyebrows are thin and 'washed-out' looking, they can be made to come in darker and longer by gentle massaging with plain pyroxin. Applying pyroxin to the lashes with the finger tops will make them grow long and lovely.

"Dainty complexions suffer from cold winds and wintry weather. The best protection is a lotion made by dissolving a package of mayatone in a half pint of witch hazel. Rub this over the face, neck and arms in the morning and it will hold all day. It is a true beautifier and does not rub off or show like powder. Mayatone makes the skin soft, smooth and white and prevents growth of hair.

"Mother's Salve gives almost instant relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsilitis, colds in head or chest and is a sovereign remedy for catarrh. It should be on every woman's dresser.

"Superfluous hair on face or forearms can be quickly and painlessly removed. Make a paste with a little delatone and water, cover the hairs, permit to remain two minutes, wipe off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone.

"Washing the head exposes one to catching cold and too much moisture dulls and deadens the hair; therefore dry shampooing is growing in popularity among women who know. Mix four ounces of powdered orris root with a package of therox; sprinkle a little of this mixture on the head, brush out and your scalp is clean and your hair wavy, lustrous and easy to do up. Therox energizes the hair roots."—Adv.

PRINTER-EDITOR TAKES OWN LIFE

Edward W. Hearne, Despondent, Swallows Deadly Poison.

HAD BEEN DRINKING

Edward W. Hearne, a printer and recently labor news reporter for the defunct Labor News-Scimitar, committed suicide at 11:30 o'clock Monday night in the rear of the residence of a relative at 244 Masterson avenue. He swallowed bichloride of mercury tablets and drank the contents of an ounce phial of deadly prussic acid. Hearne was lifeless when discovered by a relative who went in search of him after he had stated that he intended to spend the night at the bedside of his mother, who is very ill.

Hearne is said to have been drinking heavily Monday evening, and he left the meeting of the Fort Wayne Federation of Labor while a motion to eject him was being debated. Hearne was despondent over the turn of events in connection with a new labor newspaper venture in which he was interested.

The deceased was born at Van Wert, O. He learned the printing trade in Fort Wayne. He was away from the city for a number of years and later returned, taking employment with the Labor Times-Herald. Later becoming associated with E. R. Russell, he obtained the endorsement of the Federation of Labor for a new labor publication which failed with the departure of Russell two weeks ago.

with intent to kill and that the court would release him on his own recognizance. When the prisoner had taken oath to appear in court when summoned he was released from the cage, his wife, waiting at the rail behind the prisoners' cage fell into his arms and a dozen of his male companions rushed forward and kissed him.

Ettor and Giovannitti also were held on another indictment charging them, together with Wm. D. Haywood, of the Industrial Workers of the World and others with conspiracy to incite riot in the Lawrence strike. On this they were released on bonds of $500 each, which were furnished by Helen S. Durley, of Boston.

The Lawrence strike leaders then were freed from the prisoners' cage and besieged by a crowd of men and women in the court room. For several minutes they were the recipients of kisses from the men and congratulations from the women.

Hold Jubilation Meeting.

The defendants and their attorneys held a jubilation meeting in the court room when court was adjourned, and a few minutes later followed by a cheering throng of mill workers, they marched through the streets from the court house to the local office of the Industrial Workers of the World, where they remained for some time.

"I have no immediate plans," said Ettor. "But I am going as soon as possible to my home in Tacoma, Wash., where I have a paralyzed father. He was paralyzed since my arrest."

Giovannitti said he expected to visit friends in Boston and vicinity before going to his home in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Both prisoners were very happy. They declared they had no words to express their joy.

Caruso and his wife, who had been sitting near him outside the cage for many weeks, danced about like children. They expect to return to their home in Lawrence at once.

Voice Joy in Italian.

The liberated leaders and their friends after leaving the Industrial Workers' office went to Salvation Army hall, where they made the echoes ring with Italian songs and speeches. Ettor and Giovannitti spoke in their native tongue, and even Caruso, who never made a speech in his life, was forced to say a few words. At this meeting it was planned that all should go to Lawrence later in the day where a big demonstration is to be held. The attorneys for the defense were given demonstrative evidences by their clients of appreciation for their services.

District Attorney Henry C. Attwill, who conducted the prosecution of the case, would make no statement as to the plans of the commonwealth in the cases pending. The outcome of this case, it was asserted, would have some bearing on the others in all probability.

History of the Case.

The trial of Joseph Ettor, member of the executive committee of the Industrial Workers of the World; Arturo Giovannitti, a socialist writer of Brooklyn, New York, and Joseph Caruso, a mill worker, came about in consequence of the strike in the textile mills in Lawrence, Mass., suddenly precipitated January 12 last and continued for two months. Ettor and Giovannitti were accused as accessories before the fact to the murder of Anna Lopizzo, who was killed in a street riot. The commonwealth maintained that they incited the riot in which the woman met her death by inflammatory speeches to the strikers. Caruso was accused, with Salvatore Scuito, who never has been apprehended, with actual participation in the riot.

The strike, which was accompanied by much violence, enlisting organized and unorganized workers on one hand and mill owners on the other, with the police of Lawrence and militia of Massachusetts on guard to avert disastrous consequences, attracted world-wide attention for many weeks. Riots were frequent; cars in Lawrence were attacked; men, women and children who attempted to work were assailed and in some cases injured, and there were repeated clashes between strikers and the organized forces of the law until citizens of Lawrence were alarmed at the threatening struggle. Its climax came on January 29, a day begun with a parade of agitated foreign workers to demonstrate their solidarity against the mill owners and ended with a riot in which the young woman was slain and Oscar Benoit, a Lawrence policeman, stabbed.

Appealed to Congress.

Even congress was appealed to during the struggle following an attempt of strike leaders to take from Lawrence to Philadelphia a hundred children of strikers' families to be care for by sympathizers. This effort, preceded by successful deportation of strikers' children to New York and other cities, was frustrated by the police in a clash at the railroad station in which fathers, mothers and children clashed with the authorities. Many men and women were arrested. This occurtence, widely heralded, aroused protests from all parts of the United States and prompted Victor Berger, socialist member of the house of representatives to plan a congressional investigation of the strike and working conditions in the mills of the American Woolen company and others. A resolution directing such an inquiry brought about a preliminary hearing before the rules committee of the house in which Lawrence strikers, men, women and children, representatives of the mill owners and representatives of the Lawrnce authorities, participated. The hearings held in the caucus room of the house office building in Washington aroused intense interest, hundreds of persons, including Mrs. Taft, wife of the president, attending them for several days. No congressional action, however, was recommended.

When Strike Began.

The strike began on January 12 when workers in mills of the American Woolen company left their looms in protest against a reduction without notice of two hours' pay a week in consequence of there going into effect a new state law restricting labor to fifty-four hours a week. Rioting about the mill gates immediately followed, and on the following day Ettor, a young Italian-American labor leader from Pennsylvania, went to Lawrence to take charge of the strike for the Industrial Workers of the World and to organize the dissatisfied and unorganized army of laborers.

By January 15, 30,000 persons were idle; the mills were closed; special police were sworn in to aid the regular force in preserving order; state troops were ordered to Lawrence by Governor Foss and an industrial crisis was at hand.

Ettor, assuming command of the workers' cause, announced that the strikers demanded a wage increase of fifteen per cent, abolition of the premium system and double pay for overtime. Numerous conferences were held with state bodies and mill owners and a strike committee was organized, headed by Ettor and composed of representatives of each nationality involved in the conflict, including the Italians, who were most numerous, Poles, Syrians, Lithuanians, Hebrews, Americans and others.

During the progress of the trouble Ettor frequently addressed the masses in churches, halls and on the Lawrence common. In keeping up the enthusiasm thus he was aided by Arturo Giovannitti, who went to Lawrence from Brooklyn; William D. Haywood, the leader of the Industrial Workers of the World, and many others prominent in the work of the organization.

Situation Very Tense.

For many days the situation in Lawrence was tense, with outbreaks of violence constantly agitating the public mind. On January 20 seven sticks of dynamite were found by the police in houses and shops in the Italian quarter. Suspicion against the strikers was directed at once, and six persons, Italians and Syrians, were arrested. Ettor was informed by Colonel E. Leroy Sweetser of his grave responsibility in the matter. Ettor immediately told the strikers that none of their people had anything to do with the dynamite and charged that the mill owners had planted it to prejudice the cause of the strikers. Subsequent investigation resulted in the conviction of a Lawrence school commissioner for planting the dynamite. Later business men and William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen company, were indicted for conspiracy to plant dynamite in Lawrence. Trial of these cases is pending. This development served to intensify the bitterness of the conflict and Lawrence was at fever heat.

Conferences to settle the strike had failed, and on the morning of January 29 an organized street parade and demonstration by the strikers occurred. It was preceded by rioting before sunrise in which the street cars were pelted with chunks of ice and other missiles and persons forcibly prevented from going to work in the mills. After the parade Ettor and Giovannitti addressed the strikers in Lawrence common, where they are alleged to have urged the strikers to acts of violence. That evening the streets near the mills were jammed with the idle millworkers. Soldiers and police were ordered to clear the streets.

Spirit Was Dangerous.

The spirit of the hour was a dangerous one. The people sullenly responded to the orders of the police and hissed them. Many blocks of ice were thrown at the officers of the law. Policemen's clubs, in retaliation, were wielded over the backs of recalcitrant strikers, when suddenly shooting began and Anna Lopizzo fell lifeless in the street. Other riots followed the next day and that midnight Ettor and Giovannitti were arrested, charged with being accessories before the fact to the Lopizzo murder. Later Caruso, was arrested, charged with Salvatore Scuito, as one of the principals to the crime as an actual participant in the fatal riot.

The arrest of Ettor and Giovannitti fanned to a fury the flame of feeling among the agitated foreigners and conditions were even more dangerous. Threats were made of a general strike, organizations throughout the country and in other lands protesting against the action of the authorities. Ettor and Giovannitti pleaded not guilty on January 31, but were held to the grand jury without bail and locked up in the Lawrence jail until February 9, when, after a hearing, they were held to the grand jury and later indicted. The strike continued under the leadership now of W. D. Haywood until March 14, when the cause of the workers was victorious and the strike was officially declared off. The workers gained increases in pay ranging from seven to fifteen per cent and concessions in working conditions.

Effort for Defense.

Indictment of the strike leaders and Caruso brought about an organized world-wide effort to raise a defense fund and workers from many countries responded. Threats of a general world strike in protest against the action again were made, and since the beginning of the trial Lawrence has been flooded with circulars denouncing the agents of the courts and the conditions of the case. Threats to storm the jail have been made and feeling has run riot up to the very close of the case. When the trial began a twenty-four-hour strike of protest was responded to by fifty thousand workers in mills throughout New England.

The case, after several delays, was actually taken up early in October in the superior court of Essex county before Justice Joseph F. Quinn. Efforts to get a jury exhausted a panel of 300 veniremen, and another delay until October 14 followed. When taken up again a jury was procured within two days and the commonwealth began the presentation of testimony October 16. District Attorney Henry C. Attwill had charge of the case for the Commonwealth. J. P. S. Mahoney, for Ettor; W. Scott Peters, for Giovannitti; James H. Sisk, for Caruso, with George E. Roewer, Jr., and Fred H. Moore as advisory counsel, conducted the defense.

Why French Women Always Look Young

("Aurilla" in Society World.)

In France mothers and daughters look like sisters. I tried to find out how the women were able to retain their youthful looks until long past middle age. I learned that they were much given to the use of mercolized wax. This wax possesses a remarkable absorbent property which quickly removes the fine particles of cuticle which are constantly dying and which are the immediate cause of an old-looking complexion. Thus the livelier, healthier, younger skin beneath is given a chance to breathe and show itself. I've tried this treatment myself. In less than two weeks my complexion has become as clear, soft and beautiful as a young girl's. Just one ounce of mercolized wax (all American druggists have it) did the work. The wax is put on nights like cold cream and washed off mornings.

Another valuable secret I learned from the French was how to quickly remove wrinkles. One ounce of powdered saxolite dissolved in a half pint witch hazel, makes a marvelously effective astringent lotion. The face should be bathed in this daily until the deepest lines have entirely disappeared.—Adv.

Music Pupils' Recital.

Many friends of the young piano students of the Boston Conservatory of Music, heard a recital given in Packard hall, on November 23. All were pupils of Marcella Thompson and their playing gave evidence of painstaking and careful teaching and earnest work on the part of the pupils, several of whom displayed much natural ability. Particularly good and advanced in technical acquirement was the playing of Miss Nellie McClure, of Silver Lake; Miss Cleo Leffel, of Warsaw, and Edward Dubois, of this city. Miss McClure played from memory the first piano part of three movements of the Liszt concerto in A major and assisted in two eight hand pieces. Edward Dubois played the Liszt polonaise in E major. Miss Leffel the Mendelssohn Rondo Capriccioso. Other students did very well indeed in their part of the program. Master Herbert Stevens, a boy soprano, who has had training in the choir of the Episcopal church, sang very prettily "Mighty Lak' a Rose." None of the voice or violin pupils took part in this recital, but will later in the season. Mrs. Clara Zollars-Bond and Percy Nussbaum are the other members of the faculty of the school. The pupils who played in addition to those already mentioned were Josephine Roehling, Russel Cooper, Leroy Gale, Edna Robinson, Scott Strong, all of this city, and Paul Milbern, of Mentone; Douglas Wasmuth, of Roanoke; Ethel Sloan, of Warsaw.

The bride wore a becoming and stylish tailored suit of white serge and a white beaver hat trimmed with a white ostrich plume. The bridesmaid was dressed in a white serge suit with white velour hat. The bride carried a white prayerbook with marker of ribbon and white flowers. The bridesmaid's bouquet was of yellow chrysanthemums. My New Clothes

The Last of Miss Burke's Special Articles on Clothes She is Wearing This Fall.

(By Billie Burke.)

THE FIRST WORD—Every girl should wear dainty evening gowns. Leave the brocades and velvets to the dowagers.

* * *

A number of New York women famed for their taste have been kind enough to compliment my frocks in "The Mind the Paint Girl" and they say that one reason they like them so well is because they are girlish and dainty. There are two kinds of simple gowns—the kind that is really simple and the kind that is costly and elaborate and yet looks simple. Naturally, my gowns in "The Mind the Paint Girl" are in the last category.

My first act gown is of white tulle, banded half way up the skirt with white roses made of silk. Below it are bands of real valenciennes lace and beneath that a narrow flounce of exquisite rose point lace, with scallops which are trimmed with narrow valenciennes. This may seem like gilding the lily, putting valenciennes lace on rose point, but I assure you the effect is exquisite. The waist is a simple little affair of the tulle with a ruffle of valenciennes around the neck and puffed sleeves.

The most individual part of the whole costume is an apron of the rose point in front with a valenciennes lace pocket. The belt is of simple crushed pink satin. I wear the gown over a chiffon slip of blushed pink. It is just the kind of a dress that a man will say: "Why don't you get one like it? It is so simple and sweet." And a woman would understand that it is as expensive as it is simple.

I have two or three evening coats which I wear in this play. HThe one in the illustration is made of gold embroidered pink chiffon. The lines are perfectly straight and simple. This coat has no sleeves. In fact, very few of the evening wraps have sleeves this year, unless they are made of fur. About the arm-holes is a very gorgeous embroidery of gold and silk in pastel shades.

I have another wrap that I sometimes wear with my evening dresses in "The Mind the Paint Girl," of a coral pink brocade. This is lined with almost a turquoise blue and is trimmed with cords of the blue. It will be seen from my description that I seldom wear any other colors than pink, blue, white, gray and black. These seem to be my colors this year, although I am wearing reddish brown at times, as all red-headed women do.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

GOOD COMPANY IN "THE ROSARY."

Beautiful Play Again Attracts Big Audiences at Majestic.

That thoroughly excellent and very pretty play, "The Rosary," opened a three days' engagement at the Majestic last evening and again gave immense satisfaction to all who saw it. The play presents three love stories, though the one between Mr. and Mrs. Wilton, the principal characters, is the one of the most importance. That one aims to teach some simple truths, one of which that real happiness does not exist where there is no belief in things religious or marital happiness where there is jealousy. There is much that is sane and practical in application to everyday living in this wholesome and beautiful play that is being presented by a fine company and with sumptuous setting. The company plays only week stands and is giving a performance that no one should miss seeing. "The Rosary," as a play, bears seeing more than once, even if it were not well produced, as it is this particular appearance.

There will be a matinee performance on Wednesday and evening performances tonight and tomorrow.

NORMAN HACKETT, THANKSGIVING

Norman Hackett, the distinguished young American actor, will be seen at the Majestic theater Thursday matinee and evening in his new play, "Satan Sanderson," by Hallie Erminie Rives, and dramatized by Kirk Alexander. "Satan Sanderson" is the story of two college men who look enough alike to be twins. The part that Mr. Hackett takes is that of a minister, Rev. Henry Sanderson. During his college days he was known as the hardest hitter and hardest drinker of his class. This is where he received the nickname Satan, which stuck to him during his life. It was during a drinking bout at college, when one of the members of his class died, that Satan Sanderson decides to reform. The play shows the hard struggle the Rev. Satan Sanderson has in living down his past and trying to reform his old roommate, Hugh Stires. The first act shows the beautiful wedding scene, the second act St. James Chapel, and the last three acts are laid in Smoky Mountain, Colorado, showing the beautiful scenery of that region.

German Company Again Friday.

The Peasant Players of Oberammergau, who gave such a beautiful and in many ways unique entertainment at the Majestic last week, will return for another engagement next Friday night, Nov. 20, presenting the rural comedy success, "Der Dorpfarrer" (The Village Parson). These players scored a phenomenal success here, as they do wherever they appear, and the German theater-goers of Fort Wayne can indeed consider themselves fortunate in securing a return engagement.

All of the performers are peasants from the Bavarian Alps, who have received their training as actors under similar conditions as do the world-renowned Passion players of Oberammergau. They speak their native most beautiful Bavarian dialect off as well as on the stage. Their emotions and sentiments, which are so vividly portrayed in these plays, are not only acted, but are really lived through on the stage. The costumes depict peasant life and are picturesque and attractive. The exceedingly graceful "Schuhplattler" dance, which was appreciated by the audience last Friday night, will be repeated during the performance next Friday night with different variations.

"Little Women" Reaches Footlights.

"Little Women" dramatized?

Think of it! After forty-three years of popularity, Louisa M. Alcott's immortal story, "Little Women," has been made into a play. And the very natural inquiry is: "Why has it not been done before?" Back of this there is a story: a story of one woman's constant effort for more than eight years to get the consent of the Alcott heirs to allow this famous book to be dramatized and those delightful characters—Meg, Jo, Beth and Amy—put upon the stage to live the scenes so well known to thousands of readers.

Mr. William A. Brady has made an elaborate production and selected a cast of representative New York players, including Jane Marbury, Catherine Calhoun, Edna Walther, Jane Salisbury, Jean Adair, Eleanor Carey, Julia Varney, Robert Adams, George Stahl, Mortimer Martini, Douglas Patterson and Burke Clark.

"Little Women" will be the attraction at the Majestic Saturday matinee and evening.

AT THE TEMPLE

There are some delightful things in the Tempie vaudeville this week. Then there are a few moments that are not. For instance, one may go a long ways and not find sweeter or more wholesome humor and better acting of a fine little play than can be seen and heard in the act of Joseph R. Kettler, Charles Gorham and Bessie Morton. They have a story they call "A Rural Substitute." It is one of the rarely good things that crop up every now and then in vaudeville. Besides it is exceptionally well acted. Both Messrs. Kettler and Gorham are old favorites and Miss Moore has been seen here with them in other acts. It is well worth going to see.

Still another clever and attractive number is that of Bert Howard and Effie Lawrence. It is one of those bright, snappy things without anything in the lines that is especially clever outside of the act itself, but with Miss Lawrence and Mr. Howard saying them becomes one continuous sparkle. Besides Miss Lawrence shows a great aptitude for originality as a comedienne. She is awfully funny, graceful, dainty and fetching. Mr. Howard has been admirable in his specialty for some years and he keeps right up to the mark.

And if you see Tom Mahoney once you'll want to go again for he has one of the best monologues heard in many moons. Wit, humor, fine appearance and a rich toned voice with the brogue of "auld Ireland" herself purring from his tongue, makes Mr. Mahoney hold the attention of everyone the moment he appears. And what he says! Just about as funny as you can stand and not howl with laughing. As the president of the hod carriers' union at one of their regular monthly meetings Mr. Mahoney has something to give in entertainment that is a top notcher. It was hard for the audience of yesterday to let him go.

The big act so far as number of people and elaborate stage setting goes is the one Charles Wayne and Gertrude Des Roches and Company present in "The Incubator Girls." Mr. Wayne was greeted with considerable applause when he appeared. He has many admiring friends and judging from the applause there were many who liked the performance. But the act is coarse from start to finish. Certainly has merit? Why, to be sure it has. It has an original idea and that is something. Miss Des Roches wears much abbreviated but very handsome and rich-looking costumes. She is pretty and her voice is naturally sweet and musical. Mr. Wayne has ability, but he will dip his tongue in soot every once in a while.

The Marimba band are three young Japanese boys who play beautifully on some odd instrument that becomes more and more fascinating the longer they play. They made a hit. So did Carl Randall, who has a dancing and singing stunt. His dancing is splendid. Music and Gaumont pictures keep up to the standard.

Don't overlook our sale of young men's black suits. About half of the men wear young men's suits: Read ad on page 5.

This photograph shows the members of the high school class in their last dress rehearsal for "All-of-a-Sudden, Peggy," which will be staged at the auditorium tomorrow night.

Ronald Dawson, who has charge of the preparations, is shown back of the row where he stationed himself to put his company through some of the final drills. The play, which is a comedy, according to the critics who have witnessed the rehearsals, promises to be one of the best ever put on by the high school students and there has been a sale of tickets that insures a big attendance.

The House That Saves You Money

ON ONE DEPENDS A DOCTOR'S FATE

Death Sentence Halted Two and a Half Years by Governor.

WAITING FOR TRUTH

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 26.—For two and a half years Dr. W. P. McNaughton has known no home save a narrow cell in the jail of Chatham county. For two years and a half his only prospect has been that of ending his days on the gallows. A jury in his home county has declared him guilty of the most revolting of all murders—the poisoning of a friend. The highest court in Georgia has ruled that the sentence of the court must be executed. The highest court of the nation has failed to come to his succor.

Between Dr. McNaughton and the gallows stands only the figure of "Little Joe" Brown, and Georgia's governor will not wipe away the shadow of the gibbet with pardon or commutation of sentence. But the governor will not allow Dr. McNaughton to be hanged until he is convinced that the whole truth in this remarkable tragedy is known.

Victim's Widow Tragic Figure.

He believes that this will not come to pass until Mrs. Mattie Flanders, the widow of the man for whose death a jury has said Dr. McNaughton must pay with his life, is brought to trial on the charge which rests against her of being an accessory in the crime.

Time and again the case of Mrs. Flanders has been called in the Emanuel county court. Time and again it has been postponed. Until she faces a jury the death doom will hang over Dr. McNaughton's cell. Until her guilt or innocence has been established the governor is determined that the physician shall not die. The courts refuse to move. The positive statement owf Governor Brown means that he will get another stay of execution.

Story of Remarkable Crime.

Georgia's criminal history holds no stranger case than that of the Swainsboro physician. The motive for the crime—if there was a crime—is the old motive. The ancient triangle is the only cause suggested for Fred Flanders' death.

Mrs. Flanders' loyalty to the man who is accused of killing her husband has been constant. Never in Dr. McNaughton's darkest hours has the woman suggested his guilt. She has contended strongly and convincingly that he is the victim of a chain of circumstances or a sinister plot.

The relationship between the Flanders couple and Dr. McNaughton has never been explained. Fred Flanders was a prosperous farmer of Emanuel county. His kin are wealthy, numerous, prominent in politics. Dr. McNaughton was a young, respected physician of Swainsboro, the county seat of Emanuel. Dr. McNaughton was the family physician of the Flanders couple—and more than that. He was the close personal friend of Fred Flanders.

The physician was married. Children had been born to the union. In 1908 Mrs McNaughton died. Then came the strangest, weirdest feature of the tragic story. Flanders and his wife abandoned their home on the farm and came to Swainsboro to live with the physician.

On June 4, 1910, Flanders died suddenly. Dr. McNaughton, as his physician, declared that the end was due to acute nephritis.

The story of nephrtiis was not questioned—except by the Flanders family. They demanded an investigation.

The body was exhumed. On July 13 the chemists reported. Distinct traces of arsenic poison had been found. The Flanders family was not slow to act.

Mrs. Flanders was found and arrested. Dr. McNaughton had disappeared.

A dragnet was spread over the entire state. Dr. McNaughton was traced to Augusta and arrested.

At the trial Dr. McNaughton made a spirited defense, but the chain of circumstances proved too strong. On October 19 he was found guilty. He was sentenced to hang on December 9.

Then began a most remarkable legal battle, which is still agitating the state.

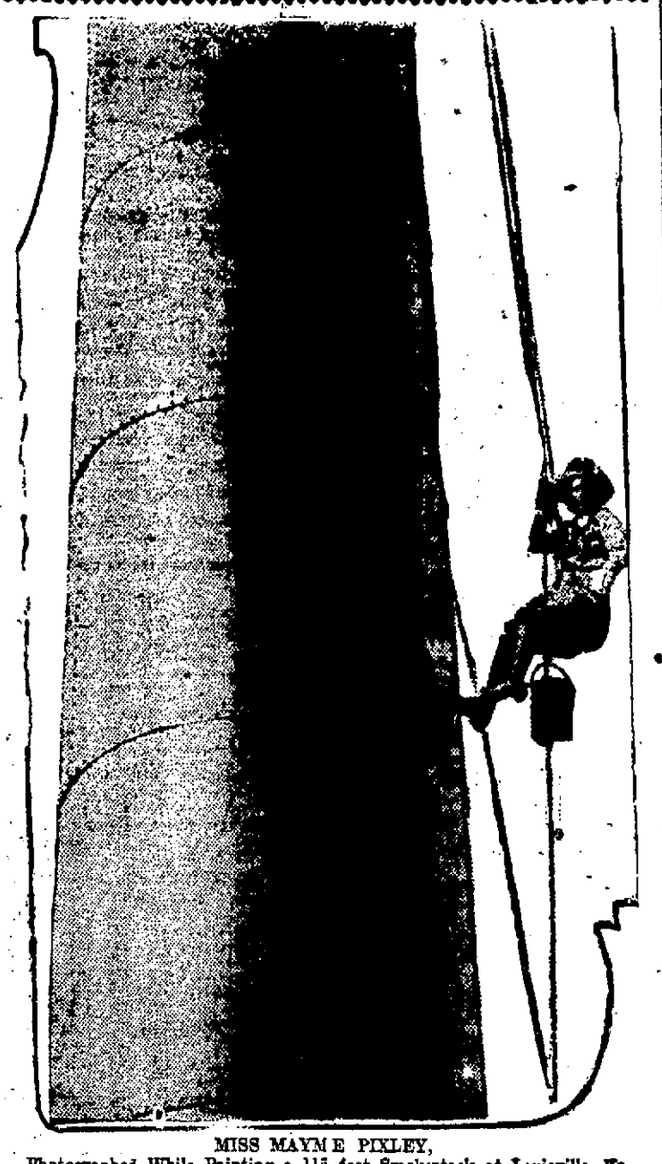
LET MAYME DO IT! SHE PAINTS SMOKESTACKS.



MISS MAYME PIXLEY,
Photographed While Painting a 115-foot Smokestack at Louisville, Ky

(By E. C. Rodgers.)

Jeffersonville, Ind., Nov. 26.—"How do I like my job?" repeated a very much be-painted young woman from back of a coat of black cinders and coal dust.

"Why, I like it fine," she answered, and made for a bucket of cold water.

After a few liberal splashes, the laughing eyes and healthy complexion of the world's only girl smokestack painter faced me.

She is Miss Mayme Pixley. Smokestack painting is her regular business, though when smokestacks are not to be had she will paint steeples and flagpoles with the best of men steeplejacks—and paint 'em as fast and as well.

Miss Pixley had just finished coating the last strip of smokestack with black paint when I came up. Her gloves were black with paint, so was her short skirt, and most everything about her. Hers is not a job for fancy dresses and dainty white lingerie, but Mayme likes it just the same, although she likes pretty clothes, too.

"I make more money at it," explained Miss Pixley, "than most women school teachers, more than store clerks and more than nine-tenths of the girls who work in offices, and I am outdoors all the time, and it's exciting, and I haven't anl boss over me, and anyway, I like to do men's work, and always did."

There were enough reasons to satisfy any person.

"I was born and raised on a farm," continued Miss Pixley, gathering up her ropes and chains and things, "and as long back as I can remember I'd rather be out in the field with father than in the house with mother and my six sisters. By the time I was 13 I could drive a team as well as any boy; and when I was 16 I could beat pa plowing; and during the winter time I ran the engine at pa's grist mill. When we moved to town pa took up smokestack painting, and naturally I took a great interest in it and used to help him with the ropes. Then his foot was hurt and he couldn't climb the high stacks so well, and had to hire a man at $4 a day.

"One day the fellow didn't show up and I persuaded pa that I could do it—and I did. That was how I began.

"In the last four days I have cleared $19 and only worked about six hours a day at that."

The tallest stack she has painted towered 305 feet above the ground, and she went up and down it several times as she painted long strips from top to bottom.

Miss Pixley has painted most of the smokestacks in southern Indiana and in Louisville, Ky., in the last three years.

Explaining her working garb, she said: "At first I used to wear bloomers, but that attracted so much attention; why, there used to be crowds standing around all the time watching me! So I took to wearing a short skirt, but still men act like watching a smokestack being painted is the most interesting thing on earth."

"Don't you get frightened 'way up there in the air?"

"Oh, no; I get lots worse scared dodging automobiles down on the street. The only time I get the least bit nervous is when the wind is high, for then my seat blows out from the stack, and I have to be careful that I am not blown against the holding wires and cut."

Miss Pixley is 23; she has two big air castles; she wants to paint the biggest smokestack in America, and she hopes a certain young farmer in southeastern Colorado will hurry up and get his homestead claim in good working order.

THE CHILDREN.

SAYS HE'LL FILL JAIL WITH THEM

Indianapolis Judge Scores Men Who Fail to Support Children.

BRIEF INDIANA NEWS

Indianapolis, Nov. 26.—"I'll fill the jail with men who refuse to obey orders to support their children, born before they were divorced, before I will allow the children to become public charges or to go to the county institutions," Judge Rochford, of the superior court said yesterday. "Those men come into court with collars up to their ears, cuffs down over their knuckles and a scarf pin which makes you wear glasses before you can look at it and then say they cannot support their children. They will support them if this court can make them do it."

Judge Rochford had been considering charges against William H. Ball, an insurance solicitor, that he had failed to pay $4 a week for the support of his two children by a wife who has divorced him. He said Ball must pay the $4 a week under the original order and $2 a week additional to make up the back payments.

A new rule is going into effect in this court the judge said. "If any man appears before me a second time for failure to obey these orders he will go to jail sure. I'm going to stop this practice of failure to pay for the support of children, who are not responsible for their father's action. If any one suffers it will have to be the second wife of any such man, and not the children."

THREE ARE INJURED.

Auto at Indianapolis Crashes Into Telephone Pole.

Indianapolis, Nov. 26.—Three persons were injured yesterday when an automobile containing seven passengers struck a telephone pole at Indiana avenue and West street.

The injured: Miss Jeannette Hersein, West Point, Miss., a student at the Metropolitan School of Music, cut about nose and mouth by flying glass. Victor Landis, son of William H. Landis, cut by glass. Mrs. Millie Meureuther, Peru, Ill., bruised painfully.

In the car with the three injured persons were Mrs. Jennie Linning, Peru, Ill.; Roy Kinder, LaSalle, Ill.; Mrs. William H. Landis, mother of Victor Landis, and the chauffeur, Edward Dee, LaSalle, Ill.

As the chauffeur attempted to pass a wagon he lost control of the car and it struck the telephone pole. The wind shield was shattered and the glass showered the party.

The automobile was owned by Mrs. Meureuther. She came to Indianapolis recently on a pleasure trip in the machine and was visiting the Landis family.

HELD FOR WIFE'S DEATH.

William Greening and Physician Arrested at Laporte.

Laporte, Ind., Nov. 26.—William Greening, a young farmer of near Chesterton, and Dr. J. H. William Meyer were arrested yesterday in connection with the death of Mrs. William Greening, wife of Greening. The arrests were made on affidavits signed by the father of Mrs. Greening. The body of the young woman will be exhumed and an autopsy held. The attorneys for the defendants assert that the woman caused injuries which resulted in her death. Dr. Meyer has given bond. Greening is in jail.

WINTER'S FIRST VICTIM.

Shelbyville, Ind., Nov. 26.—Mrs. Clarence Kehrt, east of here, is the first person to suffer in this county on account of the freezing weather. She fell on the ice near her home and broke her right limb above the ankle. J. Henry Smith, 68 years old, north of here, fell from the roof of a corncrib and broke his right arm.

WRECKED TO AVOID COLLISION.

Shelbyville, Ind., Nov. 26.—Rather than strike a buggy with two young men as its occupants, Claude Day wrecked his touring car on a public highway south of here by taking the ditch. He and a friend, Robert Miller, were injured.

According to the last census, there are 147,000 foreigners in Egypt.

CATCHERS WATCH BATSMEN'S FEET

Most of Them Can Tell What is Going on by This Method.

VETERANS LOOK DOWN

Veteran catchers like Stanage of the Tigers, Sullivan of the White Sox, Archer of the Cubs, and Gibson of the Pirates, watch the batter's feet closely. They pay more attention to the footwork of the hitter than any other motions. The reason for this is obvious.

Take the prize fight game for example. Battling Nelson once said he could tell from the position of his opponent's feet what he was intending to do. "I never watch his eyes," said the former lightweight champion. "His feet betrayed every motion he planned. This never once failed. Persons often chided me for looking down all the time instead of watching the eyes. But there was method in my madness."

The same goes for batters. Young backstops naturally can't expect to be as crafty as the older heads. They generally have enough keeping track of the base runners and what the pitcher is throwing. They lack the coolness as a rule and the all-around generalship.

Among the first catchers who discovered the value of watching a batter's feet were Charley Bennett of Detroit, Buck Ewing and King Kelly. All three were experts and seldom were outguessed. Johnny Kling also was a wonder in deciphering what the batter's intentions were, and so was Roger Bresnahan, the deposed manager of the Cardinals.

The batter generally takes a certain natural position when he plans the hit and run game with a man on first. He usually takes a different stand—as they say in golf—when a sacrifice bunt is his intention. Some have a way of moving around that betrays their purpose. Zimmerman is one of the easiest batters in the country to watch. Its only his natural swatting ability, his knack of slugging almost wild pitches, that enables him to break even with the craft catchers.

This leads to another discussion—that of outguessing pitchers. It is more dangerous to try and outguess a pitcher than block a slider off base. The risk is more serious. Only the young batters, those who are anxious to make a reputation as sluggers, try to put one over on the twirlers.

As a rule few pitchers "bean" a hitter because of wildness. Occasionally a man like Reulbach of the Cubs loses his control and the ball is liable to crack a batter on the head. But the bad hurts come from trying to outguess the flinger, and here's the way it works:

A young fellow comes to bat with a man on second. He is keen for a long hit and, having gotten away with the stunt in the minor leagues, immediately proceeds to call the turn. He imagines the pitcher is going to hand him a straight fast ball, and steps into it. Instead a sharp breaking curve comes into him, and before he can get away it catches him on the side of the head and lays him out temporarily. Many a promising youngster has been made "bat shy" because of this. The old confidence is gone—perhaps forever. When Corcoran came to the White Sox a year ago he was a wonderful shortstop, one of the fastest in the business. He also had the making of a heavy hitter. But, during his early career he tried to outguess a pitcher and was terribly hurt. From that day he was lost to the Sox and was released to the Coast.

Then there was Billy Purtell, another promising Sox player. He was a corner as a third baseman, but was beaned while trying to outguess a pitcher. He stood away from the plate after that, lost his former confidence and has quickly drifted back.

There are many examples and it's a pity. Of course great natural sluggers like Wagner and Ty Cobb can take a chance of outguessing a twirler, because these compose the few who know how to guard themselves. But for the vast majority it's best to take what comes and stick in the game.

Frank Chance was put out of active service on account of numerous beanings.

RITCHIE THINKS HE'LL BE CHAMP

Believes He Can Beat Ad Wolgast in Their Thursday Bout.

GIVES HIS REASONS

(By Willie Ritchie.)

I feel sure that Thanksgiving afternoon a new lightweight champion of the world will be known. Having met and defeated Wolgast last May, it is with the greatest confidence that I make the above statement. Now that the match is made you can feel assured that I will take the best possible care of myself; in fact I have been doing some good, hard training in the country on Nolan's ranch for the past six weeks. The weight will not bother me in the least; as proof to back up this statement 132¼ pounds was the exact notch recorded last May when Wolgast and I met for the first time. Wolgast met Joe Mandot some time ago for ten rounds, and reports were unanimous that the latter had the better of the argument. When the champion returned he complained of the home town loyalty that favored Mandot in sending out results of their battle. Last June I met Joe Mandot under exactly the same conditions in New Orleans, and what is more, a New Orleans referee officiated on that occasion. I did not have the preference of my own selection as did Wolgast. Compare the results of our tussles with Mandot. The same group of reporters saw and wrote the description from the ringside. In the Wolgast battle the latter was favored on several occasions, even this statement the Cadillac boy has not repudiated. How different in my battle with Mandot. The latter was the one who hit the floor, and when the tenth round ended the gong saved Mandot from sure defeat. These statements were published by the New Orleans press. The best evidence in the world that Mandot wanted no more of my game is the way he crawled out of our second match when I again signed and agreed to meet him in New Orleans. My manager, Billy Nolan, signed articles of agreement with him in Los Angeles, recorded and published in all of the papers of the country. Two weeks later he repudiated the same; in other words he hung out his signal—the white flag.

Going back to Wolgast, is there any reason in the world why I should fear him? Have I not met him in the ring? He landed his best, sent me to the floor in the third round, but bear in mind, though, that when the end of that memorable battle was over the champion's own mother could hardly recognize him. He sought the services of a well known San Francisco surgeon and had quite a few stitches used to put his face together.

While unfortunately for myself, Jones had the articles of agrement so drawn up that no decision should be rendered. There was plenty of betting and many a bet was recorded. Jones and Wolgast were certain that I would fall an easy victim for the champion, and the odds were 2 to 1 that Wolgast would get the decision, this verdict to be given by the sport writers of San Francisco. One of my supporters collected $400 from Jones, and as is well known the writers were universal in declaring me the victor.

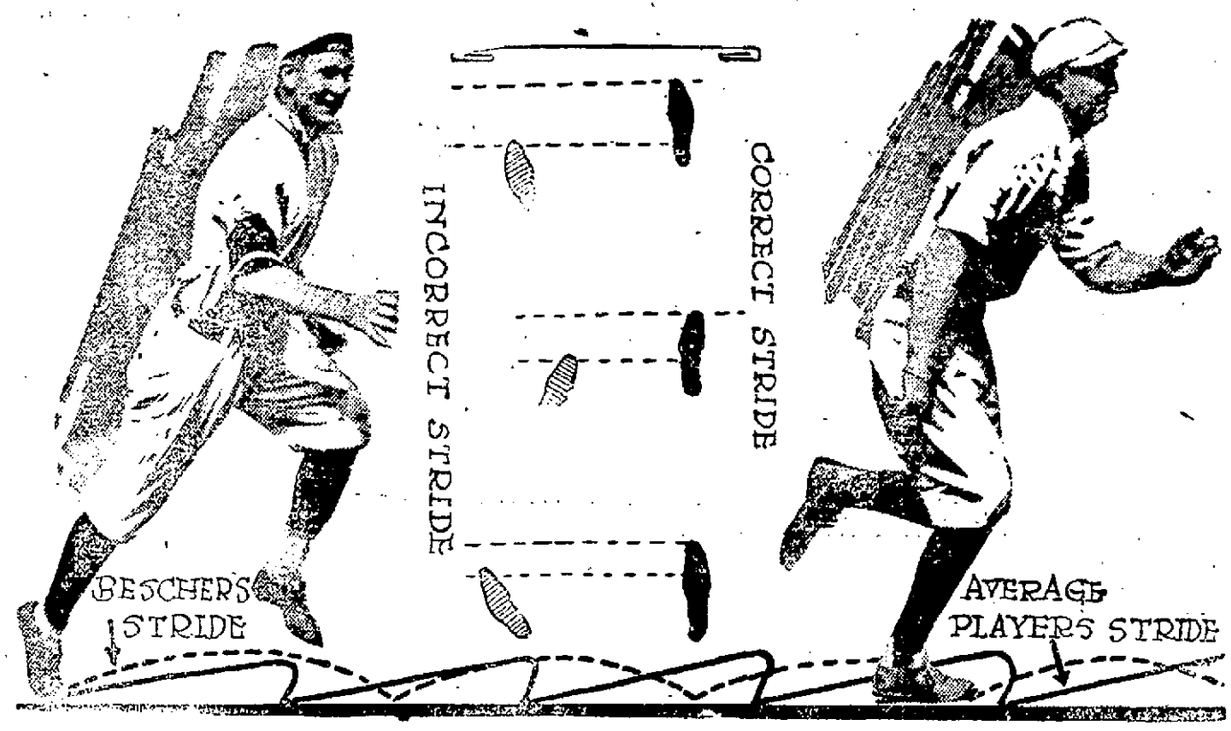
Now for the battle. We have been preparing for this engagement for several months, have thoroughly considered the weight, referee and many other things of vital importance that would be of benefit or tend to better my chances of landing the championship on Thanksgiving day. I have a manager who is thoroughly proficient with the many angles of the Queensbury game. What he does not know about the game is hardly worth knowing.

In this respect with my limited experience in big matches, I feel as though this will be a great advantage to me. Look for a great battle. True, I am very confident, but will handle myself with all of the caution necessary. If Ad Wolgast weathers the storm he will know that he has been to the races, but it is my firm belief on the morning of Nov. 28 you will read a long signed statement by Ad Wolgast giving excuses for his showing and an affidavit by Tom Jones substantiating each and every word uttered by Wolgast.

WOLGAST RULES A FAVORITE.

San Francisco, Nov. 26.—Lightweight Champion Ad Wolgast, ruling a 2 to 1 favorite over Willie Ritchie in the betting on their twenty-round bout here Thanksgiving day, did his last boxing today and apparently supremely confident of the outcome of his fight, conferred with Promoter James Coffroth regarding future matches. Coffroth has promised Wolgast a New Year's fight here if the champion's terms are reasonable.

EXPERIENCED TRAINER SAYS THERE ARE JUST TWO MEN IN NATIONAL WHO RUN PROPERLY.



Base runners are born, but they can be manufactured, according to George Hoskins, trainer of the Cincinnati Reds, who declares only two National leaguers run properly.

Before he joined the Reds, Hoskins trained track athletes at Bucknell university and the Pittsburg Athletic club.

Bob Bescher, star base runner of the Reds, and Bill Kelley, Pittsburg catcher, formerly with St. Paul, are the players Hoskins picks as near-perfect runners. Such men as Hans Wagner, Vin Campbell, Hans Lobert and Fred Merkle, noted sprinters, run incorrectly.

Hoskins maintains that about one man in 100 knows how to run and that the average ball player can reduce his time between bases a half second by changing his style. He hopes to convert the entire Redleg outfit next spring.

"Players as a rule cut their stride," says Hoskins. "They pull back their foot as they are about to place it on the ground, instead of shooting it forward, as sprinters are taught."

In the diagram the dotted lines show how Bescher, by shooting forward his feet covers the same distance in one stride less than the runner who cuts his stride, as shown by the solid line.

The diagram of feet, arranged by Hoskins, shows how the player who puts his feet down properly gains something at each stride, over the man who turns his toe at an angle. Hoskins figures a player takes fifteen strides of six feet each between bases, and that the man running properly gains two feet six inches in ninety feet.

As a majority of close decisions at first would be won by a runner gaining a half second, Hoskins' tip will be appreciated.

One photograph shows Bescher at top speed, in good form. He runs upon his toes, leaning forward, using his hands to pull himself like a sprinter. The line of his body is straight; he lifts his knee high, to shoot his foot forward, and does not lift his driving foot high enough as it leaves the ground to cause "drag."

The other photograph shows Vin Campbell, noted as a sprinter, in ragged form. His body is bent back knife fashion; his right foot is lifted so high and his right arm swung back so far that they "drag" him. He is running flat-footed.

With baseball so highly developed, little things count, and Hoskins' idea to cut a half second from the time going to first seems worthy of consideration.

Magnates of National Meet to Take Up Horace Fogel Case.

ACT ON BRUSH DEATH

New York, Nov. 26.—Notwithstanding the death of John T. Brush, president of the New York National league baseball club, magnates of the National league assembled here to consider the charges against President Horace Fogel, of the Philadelphia club, decided they would go into session at 2 o'clock this afternoon as scheduled. What action will be taken out of respect to Mr. Brush will then be determined.

BODY SENT TO INDIANAPOLIS.

Held There Until Daughter Decides What is to Be Done.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 26.—The body of John T. Brush, owner of the New York National league baseball club, who died early today in his private car near Seeburger, Mo., arrived here this morning. In the car accompanying the body were two nurses, a valet and a railroad man. The body was forwarded to Indianapolis at noon today.

Mr. Brush, who was seriously ill from locomotor ataxia when he left New York Sunday, failed rapidly on the trip. At Indianapolis yesterday the railroad considered detaching the baseball magnate's private car because of his serious condition, but they decided to attempt to rush him to the Pacific coast.

The car was held two hours last night and a tank of oxygen was placed in it for emergency use.

FUNERAL AT INDIANAPOLIS.

Will Be Held at Home of Daughter Either Thursday or Friday.

Indianapolis, Nov. 26.—The funeral of John T. Brush, president of the New York National league club, who died in his private car while on his way west early today, will be held at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harry Newton Hempstead, in this city, Thursday or Friday. The body arrived today and was taken at once to the daughter's home. Other than that the funeral will be held here no arrangements have been made. It was decided not to hold the funeral until Mr. Brush's friends from distant parts of the country could arrive. Burial probably will be here also.

Mrs. Brush and her daughter Natalie are on their way here from Bryn Mawr, Pa., where the daughter is attending school. Mr. Brush had extensive business interests here, and began his baseball career by purchasing $25 worth of stock in an Indianapolis baseball club twenty-five years ago.

John T. Brush resided for a number of years in Indianapolis and was the chief owner in the When clothing house, which he operated until he purchased the New York National franchise and moved there to take up his home.

He had been before the purchase of the Giants owner of the Cincinnati and Indianapolis team, and up to a few years ago he was one of the most active, capable and aggressive figures in the national game.

For the last few years he had disagreed with the policies of the men who gained control of league affairs, and while he held to his club he had stood aloof from the other magnates and did not take a very active part in their deliberations. He recognized that he was in the minority and most of his affairs have been entrusted to John J. McGraw, his astute manager.

HOLZHAUER WINS BATTLE.

Young Holzhaur, a Fort Wayne boxer, won in ten rounds at Sandusky, O., over Joe Grim.

FRIARS HOPE TO WIN FINAL GAME

Would Like to Close Best Season With Victory Over Collegians.

WORK OUT TONIGHT

Members of the Friar football team and the entire membership of the club back of it would like to wind up their best season with a victory over a college-trained club, and for that reason Corby hall will meet a determined troop of warriors when it lands here for the Thanksgiving day battle.

Tonight the men will work out at Swinney park, starting promptly at 8 o'clock, as the State street rink is not available, and will put on the final touches for the finishing game of 1912 as the curtain will fall with the termination of the Notre Dame battle.

There will be a big crowd out to see the game unless the weather man cuts in with a brand that will make play impossible. Interest in the clash which promises to become an annual institution, is intense and there will be a big ticket sale.

This is prompted in a great measure by the fact that the Friars have played a much better brand of football this year than they have ever played in the history of the game here, and there are plenty of people her who think they can beat Corby hall in event the club is of no better calibre than it was last year.

True, it had then a great defense and a dandy scoring machine, and it was effective but it must be taken into account that all preparation received by the players was obtained under an experienced coach who had control of his men and who could regulate their diet and their practice. The presence of "Germany" Schulz as referee will be a big card.

One thing is absolutely certain, Notre Dame will meet a much stronger club than it met a year ago, and the Friars think they have a good chance to win. As a preliminary a game between the Fort Wayne high school team and one from the Central Catholic high school will clash, starting at 1 o'clock. These clubs are old rivals and have had some pretty stiff battles.

MICHIGAN MAY RETURN IN 1913.

It Is Believed Team will Participate in Conference Athletics.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—The return of the University of Michigan to the "big nine" conference and its participation in conference athletics no later than next spring was predicted by men in close touch with the situation here yesterday after a secret meeting of conference representatives. A committee was named to take up the matter with the University of Michigan senate. If that body approves a meeting will be arranged with the other faculty representatives. The only feature of Michigan athletics not in accord with the conference customs is the training table and Michigan is said to be willing to forego this.

LOCAL SCHEDULE IS A GOOD ONE

Saints Have Some Fine Bookings for Basket Ball Games.

A FEW OUT OF TOWN

Included in the schedule arranged by Manager Clarence L. Alter for the St. Mary's Athletic club basket ball team are games with Tri-State normal on next Friday night, Paulding, Holy Name college, St. Joseph's college, Bluffton, South Bend Commercials, Corby hall, Lima, White Stars, Churubusco and Winona aggies.

Although a number of requests have been made for out of town games, the club will take on very few of them, preferring to play in Fort Wayne, where the game was made very popular last year.

Last night all of the players worked out at the gymnasium and the club looks as fast as it was at the close of the season last spring. Most of the men are in better condition and the majority of them have added a year of experience that will be of great benefit to them.

CONWAY TO QUIT GAME.

Youngstown Outfielder Says He Is Done With Baseball.

Youngstown, O., Nov. 26.—Charles Conway, popular local boy who played left field for the Steelmen, is through with baseball, at least in a professional way, according to his own statement. He recently took unto himself a bride, and has decided that he will enter the more exacting commercial life with a view to settling himself substantially. Conway is bookeeper for a local firm, and will no doubt remain in that position indefinitely.

FRANK EDINGTON IS TRANSFERRED

Sent to Columbus and is Not Likely to Play for Varnell.

HE MAY BE RETURNED

Frank Edington, a fast outfielder, and a good prospect last season, is lost to the Fort Wayne club unless he fails to make good at Columbus, O. A bulletin today issued by Secretary John H. Farrell, of the national association, shows that Edington has been sold to the Senators.

Owner Claude H. Varnell took the player late in the season to prevent him from becoming an asset of the Wheeling club, which is badly in debt. He was really the property of Pittsburg, and the Fort Wayne magnate took him as a matter of accommodation. He will be remembered as one of the men who took several prizes in the field day contests at the close of the season here.

Other sales contained in the bulletin are:

Blue Jacket, by Los Angeles to Bloomington; Robertson, by Akron to Toledo; Mordecai Brown, by Chicago N. L., to Louisville; Dick Smith, by Springfield to Scranton; Walters, by Norfolk to Kewanee; Carter, by Kewanee to Norfolk; Winchell, Barton and Gossage by Evansville to Dayton.

An order was promulgated that the Connecticut league will hereafter be known as the Eastern association.

DRAMATIC SCENE IN KIRBY TRIAL

Aged Banker in Tears, Denies Knowledge of the Missing Cash.

COURT RAPS LAWYER

Chicago, Nov. 26.—A dramatic scene was staged by Dr. William T. Kirby, alleged insane physician-banker, in Federal Judge Landis' court room late yesterday afternoon, when he was led into the court room and asked to produce $10,000 of the bank's funds he asserts he gave "wire tappers."

"My God! My God! I knew nothing about it," he cried with outstretched arm at one juncture.

Then he curled up in the witness chair and sobbed bitterly.

Dr. Kirby was brought into court on a petition to show cause why he should not turn over the $10,000 tomorrow morning. He denied knowledge of who his lawyer was, but was rational enough to explain how he happened to pay Thomas B. Lantry, former municipal judge and his lawyer, $500 two days before he was taken into the insane court.

"$500 for Services Rendered.

"I paid him $500, but that was for services already rendered," Dr. Kirby volunteered.

"Will you turn over $10,000 to the receiver?" Edward B. Healy, counsel for the receiver, asked the physician-banker.

"I haven't got it," calmly replied Dr. Kirby.

The court took him in hand and asked him who his counsel was. It was then that the dramatic flood of tears came. After the scene the court entered a rule that he should be brought in tomorrow morning and then show cause why he should not hand over the $10,000.

A few hours before Dr. Kirby was brought in Mr. Lantry had been forced by the court to turn over $500 retainer fee he had received of Dr. Kirby. He was severely lectured for not voluntarily having done so. When he attempted to explain Judge Landis broke in on him.

"You can't explain, Judge Lantry," he said. "I have been expecting that you would come in here every day since this matter came up and hand over that $500 for the depositors. I had hoped and hoped that you would come in here and say, 'I don't want this $500 if I took it from a crazy man and if this man is bankrupt I certainly don't want to take the money.'"

Mrs. Kirby Called.

Mrs. Kirby was called to the bar to explain to the court the full extent of her "high flyer" into finance through the use of fictitious names and why she had not turned over $20,000 she had received. She was handsomely gowned in brown and wore a heavy veil.

"Mrs. Kirby," said the court, "will you enumerate the bank accounts you kept?"

"Yes," came a whispered reply. "Citizens Trust and Savings bank, Franklin Trust and Savings bank and the Erickson bank."

After she had enumerated these institutions, where she maintained accounts in order that she might "kite" checks back and forth, the court ordered deposit slips and other documents brought in and continued the case until this morning, when a final order in the contempt case pending against her will be entered.

New York, Nov. 26.—On behalf of Eddie Morgan, the English bantamweight, who was matched last week with Johnny Kilbane, of Cleveland, for the world's championship title, Jimmy Johnson, Morgan's manager, today accepted the offer of J. W. Coffroth for the boys to fight twenty rounds for a purse of $7,500 at San Francisco on New Year's day.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 26.—Jimmy Dunn, manager of Johnny Kilbane, the featherweight champion, said that he has not yet received an offer for a fight with Eddie Morgan, the English fighter, at San Francisco on New Year's day. He said Kilbane has agreed to fight Morgan, but probably will not be able to go to the coast on Jan. 1.

AGAINST WOMEN WHO SMOKE.

Speaker Says Mother's Use of Tobacco Injures Children.

Kansas City, Nov. 26.—"Smoking by women is to be deplored, especially because the taste for nicotine may be transmitted to children," declared Mrs. Mary Foster Bryner of Chicago, addressing the forty-seventh annual state convention of the Mission Sunday school association here.

She said children should be shown "a few of the interesting facts disclosed by science—that thirty thousand babies die in the United States every year from inherited diseases due to tobacco and alcohol."

John L. Alexander of Chicago, in an address on "The Decline of the American Home," said:

"It is up to the Sunday school to supplement the home. It must make the boy and girl realize their position in life and that in the Sunday school they have that which will make their lives pure and wholesome."

FEDERATION HAS MEETING.

Will Not Endorse Any Independent Labor News Paper.

The Fort Wayne Federation of Labor, at its meeting Monday night withdrew its endorsement from E. R. Russell, publisher of the Labor News Scimitar, and at the same time went on record as being opposed to giving its official endorsement to any publisher until such a time when the federation can publish its own paper.

Miss Kate Kidwell, of Kalamazoo, Mich., addressed those present on conditions in existence in the factories manufacturing the "American Beauty" and "Madame Grace" corsets. She represents the Ladies' Garment Workers' union, now on strike.

The association appointed a committee to investigate the alleged unsanitary conditions at the county jail, and also endorsed a resolution requesting President-elect Wilson to advance Willis L. Moore, chief of the United States weather bureau, to the full rank of a cabinet officer.

Officers for the ensuing year will be elected at a meeting to be held December 9.

CARPENTER HURT IN FALL.

Goldsmith May Not Live, as Injuries Are Very Serious.

Harry A. Goldsmith, the carpenter who was injured in a fall at the Miner school addition yesterday, may be fatally injured. One of the broken ribs is pressing against the lung, and this together with a broken shoulder, may prove fatal. Dr. Henderson, who is attending the injured man, said today that Goldsmith's life may be saved if no complications set in. Goldsmith also has symptoms of pneumonia and if this disease develops there will be small chance of saving his life.

Goldsmith lost his balance as he was walking on a beam on the top floor of the addition being made to the school. He fell to the next floor, a distance of only 10 feet, but alighted upon his shoulder.

TOO MUCH MOTHER-IN-LAW.

Ohio Court Takes Judicial Notice of Popular Conception.

Columbus, O., Nov. 26.—Official recognition of the popular conception of "too much mother-in-law" was given in juvenile court here today when Probate Judge Samuel L. Black ordered Mrs. Elmer Wilson to "clean house" of all persons except herself, her children and her husband.

Recently Mr. Wilson returned home and so thoroughly "cleaned house" that his family had to take refuge in the fields. When the case was called in juvenile court today, Wilson's employer testified that Wilson was aggravated by a case of "too much mother-in-law." The court held that the wife could not expect much from her husband if she kept a "provoking influence" at home.

PREPARE TO INSTALL MAMMOTH GIRDERS

Wabash to Bring Steam Derricks Here Friday for That Purpose.

Assistant Trainmaster A. F. King, of the Wabash, who was in the city yesterday afternoon, posted bulletins announcing the opening for business of two important sidings. One lies between the Hannan-Hickey Costruction company's camp and Hugo and has a capacity of seventy-five cars. This will be used as a train passing point. The other siding, which will accommodate thirty-five cars, lies just west of the St. Mary's river bridge and for awhile will be devoted chiefly to making track for local freight trains 72 and 73. The passing track was "cut into" the main line yesterday afternoon and the other tracks were "cut in" this morning, immediately after the work of tearing down the old coal docks was completed. The docks were in the way of track elevation and as soon as they were out of the way, the Hannan-Hickey Construction company commenced filling on the ground they had occupied.

THE PROBLEMS OF SAFETY

Were Up Before the Nickel Plate Safety Committees.

The division and the terminal safety committees of the Nickel Plate held meetings in Fort Wayne yesterday, with nearly a full attendance. The division committee is composed of the two superintendents, the two trainmasters, the division surgeon, the master mechanic, the road foreman of engines, the division engineer, the supervisor of bridges, the supervisor of tracks, the captain of police, the district claim agent, a conductor, an engineer, a brakeman and a fireman. The terminal safety committee is composed of the general yardmaster, a yard foreman, a yard helper, a yard engineer, a yard fireman, the round house foreman, the coal dock foreman, the car repair foreman, two car repairmen, five shopmen, the freight agent, the freight house foreman and the section foreman. These committees meet monthly. The general safety committee, which includes the higher officers, meets at the call of the general manager. In a bulletin announcing the decision to organize safety committees, General Manager A. W. Johnston said:

"Recognizing the great suffering caused by avoidable accidents which result in death or injury to employes, passengers and others, the management of this company has decided to inaugurate a movement to prevent such accidents, as a matter of humanity, as well as for the purpose of increasing the efficiency of its organization. Every time a capable, experienced employe is killed or injured, suffering and sorrow are brought upon himself and family. A new man must be employed in his place, thus increasing the risk to the other men in the service, and at the same time decreasing the efficiency of the organization, in many instances very seriously."

ON NINE HOUR SCHEDULE.

Notices were posted in the Wabash shops yesterday announcing an increase in working hours. The shopmen had been working eight hours per day, but until further notice they will be required to work nine hours per day. New men are being taken on occasionally, but the resignations are nearly equal to the additions. This is one of the features of the labor problem that has annoyed all of the shop foremen more or less for a year. Speaking about it a foreman said a few days ago that more men had quit employment at his shop during the past six months than were on the pay rolls today. They were young fellows who did not care for steady employment, but worked only long enough to get a few dollars on hand and then quit.

PATROLMAN TRANSFERRED.

H. S. Magrane Comes From E. & A. Division.

This evening Capt. Henry C. Stoll, of the Pennsylvania police department, will make a valuable addition to his force in the person of H. S. Magrane. He is an experienced railway patrolman, having been employed on the Erie and Ashtabula division since July, 1909, with headquarters at Carlisle.

ON RANCH TWO WEEKS.

C. R. Colmey, wearing the complexion of a cowboy, showed up on his job as road foreman of engines of the Pennsylvania this morning. With Mrs. Colmey he returned from Levi, New Mexico, last evening, where he spent two weeks with his brother, Charles Colmey, five or six years ago a resident of this city and an engineer on the Pennsylvania, is now a prosperous cattle rancher at Levi and it was with him that Mr. and Mrs. Colmey spent their sojourn in New Mexico. They had an enjoyable time. The old friends of Charles Colmey will be pleased to know that he is in perfect health now. It was on account of failing health that he went to New Mexico and took up ranching.

DIED AT LONGCLIFF.

Hosea Shillinger, aged forty years, a Wabash brakeman, who for awhile ran through Fort Wayne, died at Longcliff insane asylum last Saturday. He was born and reared in Wabash county and took employment on the Wabash road in 1890 and worked until six months ago, when he broke down mentally and was sent to the asylum.

MR. SULLIVAN DENIES STORY.

Supt. J. C. Sullivan, of the Wabash, indignantly denies the rumor in circulation in Wabash railway circles that he is to be transferred to the Decatur division. The rumor is to the effect that J. C. Sutnpf, superintendent of the Decatur division, is to be appointed general superintendent of the Missouri Pacific and that Mr. Sullivan is to succeed him on the Decatur division.

WILL PLACE GIRDERS FRIDAY.

The Wabash expects to put the two mammoth bridge girders in position at St. Mary's river next Friday and for that purpose has ordered two big steam derricks here. Each of these girders weighs 88,000 pounds and their installation will be quite an engineering feat.

MR. COTTER TO BE HERE.

S. E. Cotter, general superintendent of the Wabash, will be here over night, his mission being business connected with track elevation and other improvements that have been made and are now in progress in Fort Wayne.

WILL JOIN THE ARMY.

W. C. Doehrman, for the past two months employed as a helper in the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop, resigned yesterday. He expects to enlist in the United States army.

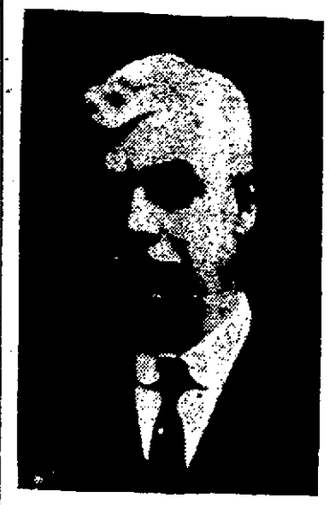
Nineteen Years in the Service.



HENRY C. STOLL.

Capt. Henry C. Stoll is today rounding out nineteen years in the police department of the Pennsylvania company and has been pretty busy at times responding to the congratulations of his numerous friends to whom the circumstances were known. When Captain Stoll entered the police department of the Pennsylvania he was "the whole department." Soon afterwards, however, the company conceived the idea of organizing a regular police department and the work of organizing the Western division end of it was placed in the hands of the genial captain and the superb police system of the present day is the result. In addition to creating a police department that has attracted nation wide attention, Captain Stoll has also educated and sent to other fields men who have become prominent in railway and municipal police work. Before going to the Pennsylvania, Captain Stoll served the county as a deputy sheriff and the city as a patrolman, giving excellent service in each instance.

NEW YORKER SUES "ADORING WIFE"

Brings Divorce Action to Match Partner's Pending in Chicago.

LETTER MADE PUBLIC

Chicago, Nov. 26.—Following the filing of a petition for divorce in a New York court Saturday by Jaques Bustanoby it was learned yesterday that a similar suit instituted in Chicago a year ago by Mrs. Ruth Boyd Bustanoby, his wife, is still pending in the superior court.

Mrs. Bustanoby, who styled herself "the adoring wife" in letters written to her husband before their estrangement, is the daughter of Thomas M. Boyd, president of the American Seating company. Her husband owns a large restaurant in New York.

In his bill Mr. Bustanoby named two New Yorkers as co-respondents. Both are much older than Mrs. Bustanoby, who is 23 years old, and is described as beautiful, highly educated, accomplished and fascinating.

No Decree Given Here.

In her testimony before Judge Burke last January Mrs. Bustanoby declared that her husband beat her a number of times while they were living in France and New York and that he threatened to kill her.

The decree has not been granted by Judge Burke because Mrs. Bustanoby's lawyers have failed, it is claimed, to present proper proof that she was a legal resident of Illinois for one year before the filing of her bill. She claimed that she lived in the Congress hotel. Her lawyers promised to produce the hotel register, but so far they have not done so.

Mrs. Bustanoby declared in New York that he did not blame his wife for what he called "her fondness for other men."

"I feel," he said, "that she was under the influence of older, wicked persons. I still consider her morally innocent, for I know what a fine girl she is, and the trouble simply is due to her being brought under unfortunate influences."

Letter Shows Love.

He produced the following letter, which she wrote to him shortly after their marriage, to prove that she has been "led astray by others:"

"To My Wonderful Husband: You are my all—my life, my great true love. Your dear, beautiful heart is my haven of rest on the stormy ocean of life. Never, never can I tell you what adoration you inspire in my poor, little heart; but I love you, my dear, beautiful soul, with all my soul, mind and strength. You are my good angel and protector.

Here is a picture of the result of a three weeks' hunt in the wilds of Maine by four Fort Wayne people. They are shown in the picture as follows: L. J. Foster, 1326 Fisher avenue, at the left; Cletis Sinel and his father, Ed T. Sinel, of 1910 Oliver street, in the center, and Hamilton H. Shelly, of 1906 Fairfield avenue. The camp established by these hunters, which they named "Little Red Squirrel," was located thirty miles out from Ashland, Maine, a little station on the Bangor & Aroostook railroad. To reach camp it took nearly two entire days in a wagon and afoot. The first twelve miles of the journey brought the party to a little hotel twelve miles from Ashland, the last sign of civilization en route to camp Red Squirrel, where a stop for the night was made. Mr. Wrinklereed, of Chicago, was also a member of the party and, with the guide, there were six in it. They got twelve deer, the limit prescribed by law, and plenty of smaller game. Messrs. Foster, Sinel and Shelly have been making trips of this kind into the wilds of Maine for the past six of eight years and never failed to get all the game they were permitted by the laws of Maine to kill. This was Cletis Sinel's first trip, however, and had the distinction of shooting the largest deer in the lot, a feat he is proud of, as a true sportsman should be. Cletis is fourteen years old. The party, with their game, arrived home Sunday night. With the exception of the Sinel lad, all are conductors on the Pennsylvania railroad.

RISKS HIS LIFE TO SAVE HORSES

OTHERS ALSO HURT

Theobald Schaoups, a hostler in the employ of E. G. Hoffman, was painfully injured in an attempt to rescue two horses from a blazing barn on the property of Mrs. Amy R. Seavey at 921 West Main street this morning. He is in a semi-conscious condition at St. Joseph's hospital and is suffering from severe burns about the head and body. His clothing caught fire as he was rescuing the horses, and his hands were badly burned as he tried to extinguish the flames.

The fire caught from an over-heated stove in the barn, and A. F. Naylor, who assisted in saving the horses, had a part of his hair singed off by the flames. The blaze was a threatening one, but was brought under control by the department quickly, and the loss will not exceed $200. The hostler was in the building washing a buggy when the fire broke out.

Capt. George Trautman, of engine company No. 5, suffered a painfully bruised thumb received when the floor of the burning building caved in with him. His injuries were dressed at St. Joseph's hospital.

Big Rapids, Mich., Nov. 26.—Charged with the murder of P. H. Ackely, a Norton township farmer, 70 years old, Mrs Lydia Van Tassel, 70, and George Hunter, 85, were arrested yesterday at Carson City. Mrs. Van Tassel was formerly Ackley's housekeeper.

The farmer's body, partly clad, was found last Thursday about a mile from his home. The discovery was made after a search of more than a week and searchers have claimed that they previously visited the place where the body was found but discovered no trace of the missing man. The authorities charge that the body was placed there after the investigation began in an attempt to indicate that the farmer had wandered away from home while asleep and died of exposure.

DENTIST

First-Class Dental work at a Reasonable Price.

When teeth are so far decayed that they cannot be filled they can be restored to usefulness, beauty and durability by the porcelain crown system. Poreclain work is one of the most beautiful operations in dentistry. It is a process of crowning teeth and matching the natural teeth so closely in shape and color that the work is imperceptible. Crowns of porcelain are so useful and comfortable to the wearer that it is soon forgotten that they are different from one's own teeth. It is astonishing to see how many roots and teeth that are considered worthless can be thus made good, comfortable teeth. Porcelain work and its several improvements when rightly performed, scientific, artistic and practical—it is the true dental fine art—and covers a large number of cases.

Call or phone 2085 for appointment and have an examination made of your teeth. Find what is required to put them in first-class condition. No charge for this.

DEMENTED GIRL LEAPS TO DEATH

Fear of "Spirits" Drives Her to Tragic End at Chicago.

LEAVES A MESSAGE

Chicago, Nov. 26.—With the words "Death or honor" pinned upon her breast, Maude Van Deusen, of 5830 Washington avenue plunged to her death yesterday from the twentieth story of the McCormick building, East Van Buren street and South Michigan avenue.

No one saw her act, although occupants of offices near the first floor ran to the windows upon hearing her body crash against a fire escape as it hurtled downward into an alley. She had locked herself in a lavatory, opened a window and jumped.

Fears of a Hindu cult, the evil spirits of which she believed had followed her for years and, in the persons of procurers, were forcing her into the hands of white slavers, prompted her act.

Message in Handbag.

Upon a ribbon fastened to her waist she had written, "Death or honor" and in a handbag attached to her wrist was an incoherent statement, several thousand words in length, in which she told of her battle to retain her respectability.

"I am trying to write this without emotion," the statement said, "and, though the following statements sound dramatic, your reason will assure you that they are only common sense.

"1. * * * I have little money and am not allowed to hold a position. I will accept no money but that which I can earn. To be without money is to be subject to any amount of dosing and to fall into hands of the spiritualist white slave trade.

"2. If I kill myself I will die clean."

Tells of "Persecution."

The young woman's autobiography told of her wandering from city to city in an effort to find some place where she would not be constantly persecuted by "procurers" and constantly made the subject of improper remarks by men on the street.

"I was indeed much discouraged and sorrowful, but never did goodness seem more beautiful to me than in this vivid contrast to these spiritualistic white slave tools," she wrote.

At another point she declared that the "effect of these minute, carefully hidden, multitudinous, constant persecutions (like a swarm of stinging insects on every side) may a girl would escape this spiritualistic influence which, when it once gets hold, means inevitably the gradual deterioration of the physical, mental and moral into insanity or utter debauchery."

Help Asked of Many.

The statement said that the writer had sought out Mayor Harrison, Chief of Police McWeeney and many other city, county and even federal officials in her effort to obtain protection from those who followed her.

In support of this statement, letters to Jane Addams imploring her aid, were found in the handbag, wrapped tightly with a small bible in which many passages had been marked. And with them was one letter in reply, from Miss Addams, in which the latter said she was too busy to see the writer at that time, but for her to call later.

In many of these letters of pleading the girl said she had threatened self-destruction.

"Will you help me?" she begged in a letter to Miss Addams which was dated Nov. 13, but which had not been mailed. "I assure you that it will be only a certainty that I can no other way escape falling into the hands of the spiritualist 'white slave' trade and that it will force me to self-destruction."

Separated from Family.

Miss Van Deusen had told friends she had left her mother, Dr. Lydia Van Deusen, of Falls City, Neb., two years ago, after the latter and a sister had affiliated with a strange Hindu cult.

The girl had told friends that the evil spirits of this society had pursued her from city to city, each in the person of a physician, a landlady or a would-be friend, and that these spirits had caused her frequently to change her place of residence.

Miss Van Deusen had resided for several months at the home of Miss Ida Rogers, 5830 Washington avenue. She formerly had lived on South Wabash avenue, near East Twenty-third street, and for a time at the Eleanor Club, a girls' home, at 2411 Indiana avenue.

She came to Chicago in June, 1910, from Cincinnati, where she had resided at the Young Woman's Christian association dormitory until she said the evil spirits had found her and caused her to flee.

Mrs. Peter Holan, 11501 Buckeye Rd., Cleveland, O., says: "Yes, indeed I can recommend Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. My little boy had a bad case of whooping cough, some times he was blue in the face. I gave him Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, and it had a remarkable effect and cured him in a short time." Remember the name, Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and do ot accept any substitute. Children like it, grown folks are quickly helped by it, and it contains no opiates. Dreier Drug Co.—Adv.

PROPOSED MUSEUM OF ART.

Structure Planned by Former Citizens of Cleveland.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 26.—City officials and museum trustees have been shown a miniature plaster of paris model of the new Cleveland Museum of Art, which will be built in the northeast part of Wade park, this city. Work will be started at once and completion is looked for within two years.

Trustees of the wills of John Huntington and Horace Kelley, each of whom left property to be turned into a fund for the erection of the building, are co-operating with a committee of city officials.

The building proper will be 300 feet long and 150 feet wide, with a fore court, formal garden and lagoon facing the main entrance.

The interior of the building and the octagonal rotunda will be of gray canyon sandstone. The material for the outside has not been selected.

The value of the output of trap rock in the United States in 1911 was $6,399,622, a decrease of $52,519 as compared with 1910. California and Massachusetts, according to the United States geological survey, were the two states showing increases in value of production. Crushed stone for concrete increased in value.

TARIFF QUIZ TO GET EARLY START

Committee Will Hear Revision Views from All Sides of Issue.

IN ADVANCE OF BILLS

Washington, Nov. 26.—Tariff hearings before the ways and means committee preliminary to the special session of congress next spring are expected to begin early in January. Representative Cordell Hull, of Tennessee, a democratic member of the committee and author of the excise tax extension bill which passed the house last season, believes the tariff hearings will include all the schedules in the Payne-Aldrich act before the democrats bring out bills revising that law.

Mr. Hull, who arrived in Washington today, believes it is probable the tariff bills which passed last session and were vetoed by the president may be "bunched" in one general bill. After these schedules are disposed of the ways and means committee will proceed to the remaining sections of the Payne-Aldrich law.

All to Get a Hearing.

The tariff hearings will partly meet the complaint that the democrats are legislating in the dark. All sides will be allowed an opportunity to air their views, but it is regarded as practically certain that no sweeping changes will be made in the Underwood bills of the last session.

During the tariff debates in the last session, it was charged the democrats were playing politics in the passage of bills destined to meet a veto at the white house. If the ways and means committee, in the light of the recent election, should reverse itself and bring in bills unlike those reported by the same committee under a different administration the democrats would have considerable explaining to do.

Plan Currency Reform.

Plans for extended hearings to receive complaints and recommendations as to the country's currency system were discussed during the day by the subcommittee of the house banking and currency committee, which has charge of the preparation of currency reform legislation.

The Aldrich currency plan, embracing a central reserve association, as formulated by the naval monetary commission, was referred to this subcommittee, but in view of the declaration of the democratic national platform against the Aldrich scheme the committee is expected to evolve a different system.

Representative Glass, of Virginia, is chairman of the subcommittee. It was understood hearings will begin early in January. Bankers, particularly country bankers, merchants and representatives of labor interests will be asked to give their views.

May Limit Presidency.

Thta congress will submit to the states this winter for ratification, a constitutional amendment extending the presidential term to six years and making all presidents ineligible for re-election seems probable. Representative Clayton, of Alabama, chairman of the house judiciary committee, returned to Washington and let it be known that he would press his resolution for that purpose.

Mr. Clayton called for Wednesday a meeting of the house managers who will prosecute the impeachment charges against Robert E. Archbold, judge of the commerce court. The managers are prepared to go on with the case immediately after the convening of the session. It is expected the trial will be concluded before Christmas.

Representative Sparkman, of Florida, chairman of the house and rivers and harbors committee, which has charge of the rivers and habors appropriation bill, returned to his office. He called a meeting of his committee for Wednesday, when the estimates for the $40,000,000 "pork barrl" will be discussed.

Dozens of representatives, the advance guard of a host that will come before next Monday, when the last session of the sixty-third congress begins, arrived in Washington this afternoon.

SINKS AUTO IN DEEP WATER.

Owner's Orders to Chauffeur Carried Out to the Letter.

San Francisco, Nov. 26.—Obeying the orders of his employer, N. H. Hart of Oakland, James Litz, a chauffeur, ran a $4,500 automobile off the rear of a ferry boat in San Francisco bay. When informed that the machine had been sunk, Hart wrote to the railroad company, offering to pay expenses of a pile driver to hammer the automobile deeper into the mud.

Hart's desire to "drown" the offending automobile was reached after it had rolled up a repair bill amounting to $2,000. He called Litz into his library.

"Take that car out and lose it," he said.

"I can't lose it," replied Litz. "It's too well known. Somebody would find it and bring it back again."

"Then sink it in the middle of the bay," said Hart. The chauffeur obeyed orders.

HOW TO PREPARE YOUR THANKSGIVING TURKEY.

To prepare a turkey for roasting, first pull out all the pin feathers with a knife. Then hold the turkey over a flame so that the short hair can be singed off.

Now cut off the head and feet. Draw the skin of the neck back and cut off the neck near the body. Remove the crop and pull out the wind pipe. Next cut the body open from the breast bone down, run your hand inside the fowl along the breast bone and loosen the fat, liver, heart and gall bladder. Draw out everything, being careful not to break the gall bladder.

Cut the skin on the lower legs and draw out the tendons. Those always harden the meat on the drumstick when they are cooked. Now wash the turkey inside and out carefully and wipe dry.

After stuffing draw the legs back and cross them over the tail.

Clean the liver and heart and gizzard by cutting off all the veins and any green looking matter. Slit the gizzard open and remove the inside lining. Wash in cold water.

How to Buy a Turkey.

Do you know how to pick out a turkey that will not be tough and stringy? These hints may help.

A turkey that will be tough and tasteless after it is cooked can be distinguished by rough legs, a hard breast bone, fat skin, a long crock (the soft, silky hair under the neck) and bony spurs if it be a cock.

Examine your turkey well before you buy. Note that the head and legs have not been removed. If the eyes are blanched you may know that the turkey has been too long in cold storage. The lower legs should be black and smooth, and the upper plump and yellow.

If you are going to buy a turkey that weighs over 10 pounds, buy a cock; under 10 pounds either a cock or hen will do.

The skin on the turkey should be soft and flexible and without the torn places that indicate carelessness in plucking.

The most essential thing is to examine the breast bone.

If it feels soft and gristly you have found a young bird.

Remember that the flesh of the turkey should be firm, rather than fat. An over-fat turkey does not cook well and the fat on the breast makes the lean meat almost indigestible.

PIMPLES ALMOST COVERED FACE

Blackheads Also. Suffered Greatly. Red and Irritated. Unsightly. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and Face Was Cleared.

Atchison, Kan. — "For a number of years I suffered very greatly from skin eruption. My face was very red and irritated, being almost covered with pimples and blackheads. The pimples were scattered over my face. They were a fine rash with the exception of a few large pimples on my forehead and chin. My face burned and looked red if exposed to either heat or cold. It was not only unsightly but very uncomfortable. I tried several remedies but couldn't get any relief. I was recommended to use Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. I applied the Cuticura Ointment in the evening, leaving it for about five minutes, then washing it off with Cuticura Soap and hot water. I washed with the Cuticura Soap and hot water also several times during the day. After about four months of this application, my face was cleared of the pimples. I still use the Cuticura Soap. I will be glad to recommend the Cuticura Remedies to anyone suffering from skin diseases." (Signed) Miss Elsie Nielson, Dec. 29, 1911.

TO REMOVE DANDRUFF

Prevent dry, thin and falling hair, allay itching and irritation, and promote the growth and beauty of the hair, frequent shampoos with Cuticura Soap, assisted by occasional dressings with Cuticura Ointment are usually effective when other methods fail. "Most Engaged Girl" in All America is Miss Adrienne Kroell—She's Proposed to Nearly Every Day—And by a Different Man!

ADRIENNE KROELL.

(By Gertrude M. Price.)

"Hullo, sweetheart, will you marry me?"

Girls, girls, Fort Wayne girls—how'd you like to have the reputation of being the "most engaged girl" living?

Well, that's the story being told about Adrienne Kroell of Chicago, who has a different man propose to her nearly every day in the year.

Impossible? Not at all.

It is just as easy as eating breakfast or riding horseback or playing tag with her little sister—for Miss Adrienne.

There's a secret in it, of course, and you would never guess unless you happen to know that Miss Kroell is one of the busiest leading women in the moving picture business.

She is a born coquet—on the stage. It is no trick at all for her to pick off the hearts of her many, many suitors.

And she says it's really good fun seeing how many ways mere man finds to tell the old, old story.

But it would never, never do for you to think Miss Kroell is a flirt. The fact is, that being made love to is the chief business of this fascinating "movie" girl, who is so often cast for the girl in the love scene of a moving picture play that now she has won the reputation of being "the most engaged girl" in the business.

"I don't know why I so often have to be THE girl," said Miss Kroel to me in a half-resentful, half-laughing voice. "Really, my friends say they think I might take some other part sometimes for a change."

The Seligroquette didn't say, but it was very evident that the objectors were not of the feminine gender. Also it was no difficult matter to guess why she is so often cast for the "girl in the question."

Adrienne Kroell is not only a popular moving picture actress, she is also a champion swimmer and holds a beauty prize. For two seasons before she joined the Chicago Selig Polyscope company she was the prima donna with a "Honeymoon Trail."

"Into the Genuine" is her favorite moving picture. Probably you've seen her in it. The upper picture in the "movie" set with this story shows her listening to a proposal in that fascinating drama. The man is Carl Winterhoff.

Next below is a scene from "The Mail Order Hypnotist," showing Miss Kroell and her hypnotic sweetheart, Eddie Wynn.

Below this is the wooing scene in "According to Law," the man's part being taken by Rex Rosselli.

KEEP YOUNG? THEN DANCE, SHE SAYS

And Admirer of Venus De Milo Gives Some Advice to Women.

A REAL BEAUTY TALK

New York, Nov. 26.—"If the Venus de Milo came to life and stood beside a modern girl, with her hollow chest, rounded shoulders and squeezed in feet, nine out of every ten persons comparing the good points of both types would choose the girl of today," declared Mrs. James J. Storrow of Boston, who addressed the Federation for Child Study and the committee on amusement of working girls. Mrs. Storrow has little use for the modern woman who does not do anything she can to improve her health, happiness and beauty, but by natural methods.

The addresses and illustration, given at the meeting house, 2 West Sixth street, Mrs. Mrs. Charles Henry Israels, one of the speakers announced, were to show the value of the new forms of dancing for children. Miss Bertha Schedler, a Wellesley graduate, went through delightful and graceful rhythmic exercises, which even the Venus de Milo couldn't outclass if she had the full use of her arms and legs.

Mrs. Storrow attacked the modern woman for her inability to stand properly, and look attractive. "Ask any group of women you happen to see if they will stand straight, and then observe what queer, strained, awkward and self-conscious postures they assume," she said.

"Why can't we all look like Greek athletes and goddesses?" she asked. "I believe our bad posture is due entirely to ill fitting shoes. The ordinary ready made shoe pinches the toes and when that happens a woman begins to feel tired all over, her digestion becomes sluggish, her arches break down and she is altogether unfit for work or pleasure, or even for human society. Not enough stress is put upon the importance of a good posture."

To illustrate the exact position women should assume, Mrs. Strarow, who is tall, slender and erect, lifted her head without sticking out her chin, and said that the top of her head reached to heaven.

"If you stand as though your head were hung on a celestial hook, you actually will tread upon air—and think how much more gracefully and attractive you will appear," she said.

She held out hope particularly to the middle aged woman, telling any present that they never need grow old and stiff, even though their contemporaries did. "Dance and grow young, then keep on dancing and never grow old," was the text of her talk.

"And if more of our girls danced as they should, instead of the way they do, they would not make such pitiful exhibitions of themselves by taking part in performances for charity," she said. "I saw such an exhibition the other day and not one of the girls dancing had control over her muscles."

DEATH CHAMBER ROBBED.

Thieves Ransack Home of Widow Buying Mourning.

London, Notv. 26.—Thieves at Gidea Park, Romford, it is reported, broke into the house of Mrs. James Hughes, a young widow, just bereft of her husband, and searched the death chamber where the body lay before they made off with money, jewels and other valuables.

After Mr. Hughes died one of the members of the firm with which he had been employed brought to the widow $150. This was placed in a drawer and on the following day Mrs. Hughes went to Stratford to buy mourning, leaving the house locked.

When she returned she found that the place had been entered by thieves and all the rooms ransacked. The money was missing, together with her dead husband's watch, his gold albert, tie pine and other possessions of value to Mrs. Hughes.

THE MARKETS

THE FOWLS FOR THANKSGIVING

They Appear in Abundance on the Barr Street Market.

PRICES ARE HIGH UP

The feature of the Barr street market today was poultry, the Thanksgiving fowl being in strong evidence. And it was not the turkey alone. The goose, the duck and the chicken were its competitors for public favor at the Thanksgiving feast and many of each kind of these fowls were sold.

From the appearance of the market one would not think that turkeys were scarce. They were there by the wagon loads, a great array of them, and ducks, geese and chickens in abundance, live and dressed. There were easily one thousand barnyard fowl for sale by the farmers on the Barr street market this morning.

The prices were high. Turkeys brought 20c a pound live weight, and 25c dressed. Geese were 10@12c live and 15@17c dressed, and great numbers of geese were sold, mostly live, however. A big goose brought $1.50. Ducks were 12c live and 17@20c dressed. A dressed duck sold for from 60c to 80c. The dressed young chicken sold for 17c a pound. The old rooster brought an even shilling a pound.

It was predicted a few weeks ago that the Thanksgiving turkeys would be scarce this year. This did not appear to be the case on the market. They were there in abundance, plenty of them to supply all demands. The price ranged higher than it was a year ago, but predictions are made that it will be lower for many more will be brought into the city. Most of the grocery dealers have laid in their supply.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago Market.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—Belief that the war scare would blow over gave wheat today a downward slant. May started at 91c to 91¼c and then fell to 90¾c. Fine weather pulled down corn. May opened at 48c to 48@48½c and sagged to 47¾c.

The close was weak at 90¼c for May, 1¼c under last night.

Illinois reports of poor husking led to aslight rally. The close, however, was easy, ¼c net lower at 47¾@47⅞c for May.

Oats suffered from lack of support. May, which started at 32¼@32⅜c to 32⅜c, descended to 32¼c.

There was little demand for provisions. First transactions with May were $18.57½ for pork, $10.20 for lard and $9.90 for ribs.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Nov. 26.—There was no reappearance of the weakness which depressed stocks yesterday when trading began today. The undertone was firm and small fractional advances were in the majority. Canadian Pacific was especially strong advancing 1¾ on the first sales.

Stringent money conditions eventually overcame the early improvement. Yesterday's high figure of 12 per cent was equalled before noon. The drain on the banks from sub-treasury operations so far this week has reached nearly $6,000,000, aproximately the amount of the surplus reserve shown in last Thursday's bank statement. Bonds were heavy, with considerable selling of some convertible issues.

The market closed strong. Satisfaction of the urgent demand left money a virtual drug on the market and the rate augmented steadily until it touched 3 per cent. Many railroads sold a point or more above yesterday's closing.

HENDRICKS GETS HANK BUTCHER.

Old Evansville Outfielder Will Play With Grizzlies Next Season.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 26.—One man that McCredie will not have next year is Hank Butcher, whom he turned over to the Denver club of the Western league through Cleveland. Jim McGill, the head of the Denver club, when he learned that Butcher was up for disposal by McCredie, got in touch with the Cleviand club and the deal was made. While Butcher failed to stick with the Beavers, he was a demon in the Southern league, and batted over the .300 mark for New Orleans. Denver is tickled to death to get the gardener, and hopes thereby to keep up the winning record for another season.

All grocery stores will be open Wednesday evening. Closed all day Thanksgiving. 26-2t

HEADACHY, CONSTIPATED, BILIOUS, TAKE DELICIOUS "SYRUP OF FIGS"

Removes the scum from the tongue, sweetens a sour, gassy, bilious stomach; cleanses your liver and 30 feet of bowels without gripe or nausea.

If headachy, bilious, dizzy, tongue coated, stomach sour and full of gas, you belch undigested food and feel sick and miserable, it means that your liver is choked with sour bile and your thirty feet of bowels are clogged with effete waste matter not properly carrid off. Constipation is worse than most folks believe. It means that this waste matter in the thirty feet of bowels decays into poisons, gases and acids and that these poisons are then sucked into the blood through the very ducts which should suck only nourishment to sustain the body.

Most people dread physic. They think of castor oil, salts and cathartic pills. They shrink from the after effects—so they postpone the dose until they get sick; then they do this liver and bowel cleansing in a heroic way—they have a bowel washday—That is all wrong. If you will take a teaspoonful of delicious Syrup of Figs tonight, you will never realize you have taken anything until morning, when all the poisonous matter, sour bile and clogged-up waste will be moved on and out of your system, thoroughly but gently—no griping—no nausea—no weakness. Taking Syrup of Figs is a real pleasure. Don't think you are drugging yourself; it is composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics, and constant use can not cause injury.

Ask your druggist for "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," and look for the name, California Fig Syrup Company, on the label. This is the genuine—old reliable. Any other Fig Syrup offered as good should be refused with contempt. Don't be imposed upon.—adv.

KILLED AT DETROIT.

Guy Saylor Formerly Resided in Fort Wayne.

Deputy Revenue Collector Lew P. Sharp has received word of the death of his nephew, Guy Saylor, who until two years ago was a brakeman on the Wabash railroad, with headquarters in this city. Details of the death were meager, although it was stated he had been killed, probably on the railroad.

Saylor was born and reared at Newville. Shortly after becoming of age he came to Fort Wayne where he remained two years. Later he went to Detroit and accepted employment on a railroad at that place.

WORLD BETTER, SAYS CARNEGIE

Ironmaster at 77 Years of Age is Both Busy and Happy.

HE SEES ROSY FUTURE

New York, Nov. 26.—Andrew Carnegie was 77 years old yesterday. He took cognizance of the fact that another year has passed over his head in the usual way; he discharged important business in the morning, consented to be interviewed in the afternoon and in the evening dined at home with intimate friends as his guests.

His few spare moments, such as were not consumed in drinking coffee with callers, were given over to the reading of many congratulatory telegrams.

The ironmaster assured the newspaper men that he would have liked nothing better than to have been a reporter, but that no editor would have him. He also said there wasn't much to worry about, and cited the Balkan situation as a timely example of the unlikelihood of disturbance.

American Conditions Pleasing.

He said that anyone who believed this country was going to be "bow-wows" was sadly mistaken.

"We pick our own kings," he said, in comment upon the elections, "and we always pick good ones."

"Do you know the reason I'm so happy?" he asked. "It's because I have a higher opinion of the human race than ever, and this higher opinion is caused by knowing many men and women.

"Women," he continued after a pause, "women has attained an almost angelic height."

Nearly Makes Pension Statement.

Mr. Carnegie nearly gave out a statement about his most recent venture in pensioning; he had it with him in his library, but decided that he must look it over a while longer by himself. He may give it out tonight.

He said informally that he had once suggested the matter of pensioning expresidents to Theodore Roosevelt, when the colonel was in the white house, but that the suggestion had been frowned upon. He didn't know whether the government would take up the scheme, Mr. Carnegie said, but he had the thing started, at least, and that was something to be relieved about.

ARMBRUSTER GETS JAIL SENTENCE

For Stabbing C. F. Fister in a Fight at Wabash Elevation.

THE CITY COURT CASES

William Armbruster, charged with assault and battery with intent to murder, was fined $10 and costs and sentenced to ninety days in jail this morning in the city court. Armbruster stabbed C. F. Fister here on Nov. 12 but skipped out, going to Chicago. He was picked up there last week and was turned over to the local police.

George Decker got drunk yesterday and started to clean out his home. His wife and daughter were so badly frightened that they called the police. Decker was allowed to go this morning, but he must cut out the booze. His case was continued for thirty days to find out whether he intends to be a total abstainer as he promised in court to do.

Looked for Him a Year.

Joe Stevens, charged with petit larceny, was fined $10 and costs. The police have been looking for Stevens for a year. He was with a gang that stole some farm produce from a farmer living north of the city last fall. He left the city soon after the theft but came back yesterday and gave himself up to the police.

William Shaw, colored, who was mixed up in a cutting affray at the Pennsylvania freight house last June, was fined $20 and costs. Shaw also left town, and has been working at Garrett. He came back here yesterday to draw some money he had coming from the Pennsylvania company, and was picked up by the Pennsylvania police.

Frank McCarty, a vag, who looked as if he had been sleeping in coal bins, drew a continuance until Dec. 3. Judge Mungovan probably thought that McCarty would get acquainted with soap and water at the jail. Pat McNaney another vagrant, went over for fifteen days.
